land, After Final Hop
From Ferrol, SpainWASHINGTON, May 31.—The American naval transatlantic flight, which began at Rockaway Beach, L. I., May 8, was successfully completed today with the arrival of the NC-4 at Plymouth, England, after a 500-mile flight from Ferrol, Spain.Announcement that Lieut. Commander Albert C. Read's plane, the sole survivor of the squadron of three, had reached England, was sent to the navy department by Vice Admiral Knapp at London.The NC-4 left Ferrol at 2:27 a. m., Washington line, and reached Plymouth at 9:26 a. m., averaging under 70 knots.After resting at Plymouth, Commander Read and his crew will go to Paris by direction of President Wilson, to give allied officers attending the aviation conference there an account of their voyage. The NC-4 meantime probably will be taken apart for shipment to the United States. It may eventually be placed in the National Museum here.

May Fly Home

PLYMOUTH, England, May 31.—The American seaplane NC-4 arrived here from Ferrol, Spain, at 9:26 o'clock this afternoon.The NC-4 came into view off Plymouth at 2:25 o'clock (local time) and three minutes later dropped down in the harbor.It has been learned here unofficially that there is a prospect that the NC-4 may fly home over the direct Atlantic route from Ireland to Newfoundland. It is understood that aPeace Conference in Secret Session
Allies Refuse To Modify Peace Terms
Reiterate Germany Will Not SignPARIS, May 31.—The secret plenary session of the peace conference to hear the peace terms to be submitted to the Austrian delegation, met at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The doors of the French foreign office were closed promptly at the hour appointed for the meeting.

WILL MAKE NO CHANGES

PARIS, May 31. (Havas).—The allied and associated powers, the Paris newspapers declare unanimously, will accept no important modification of the peace terms as a result of the German counter proposals.
The allies also will reject all verbal discussions.The Echo de Paris says that the answer of the peace conference to the German counter proposals will be very short. The answer will reject almost entirely all the German suggestions, the Excelsior says. A few points on the detail of territorial clauses, it adds, may receive some retouching.

WILL NOT SIGN TERMS

BERLIN, Thursday, May 29. (By the Associated Press).—The German foreign office reiterated categorically and emphatically today, a statement made on behalf of the cabinet on May 20, that "Germany declines to sign the terms laid before it."conference will be held here shortly to discuss the project.American naval officers said the NC-4 is in better condition than when she began her flight. Furthermore, the experience gained by all her navigators and pilots would prove of inestimable benefit should the return flight be attempted.Keen interest in the NC-4's arrival today and the fine weather which succeeded a rainy morning brought out large crowds to greet her. The great wings of the plane were made out off the harbor at 2:25 o'clock (local time). She swept quickly landward and three minutes later had settled down on the waters of the harbor to the accompaniment of cheers from crowds and sailors from all the steam craft within sight—her memorable transatlantic trip ended.The NC-4 left Ferrol at 2:27 o'clock (Greenwich time), and made the distance of approximately 500 miles to this port in six hours, 59 minutes, or at the rate of nearly 72 miles an hour.
Her passage was reported several times in her flight across the mouth of the Bay of Biscay, first by the second station ship, the destroyer Barney, which she passed at 7:13 o'clock and next by station No. 4, the destroyer Hazelwood, at 9:03.

Forced to Land

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Motor trouble which caused the NC-4 to be regarded as the "plane duck" of the American transatlantic flight squadron until she left Trepassy Bay, N. F., prevented completion yesterday of her voyage from Lisbon to Plymouth.
After covering 100 miles of the last leg of the history-making flight, the big seaplane was forced to descend at the Mondego river and she was held there too late to reach England.With her engines repaired, Lieut.
Commander Albert C. Read drove his plane 225 miles to Ferrol, Spain, where he moored for the night.Willard

youths who assaulted and lied with sheets a keeper who discovered them escaping from the reformatory on Randall's Island early today, were captured and taken in handcuffs back to their cells a few hours later after six had been rescued from drowning. The six attempted to row to the mainland and their boat was overturned by the East river rapids. A seventh was found submerged in mud and water up to his neck in a swamp. The others were found hiding in a building. The keeper, Thomas Downs, is in a serious him.

BUNTING CLUB FIELD DAY

Annual Handicap Track and Field Games at Bunting
Park This AfternoonPicturesque Bunting park, tucked away in the foot hills of South Lowell
opened its gates to half a hundred of the state's best athletes this afternoon and under a cloudless sky conducted its annual handicap track and field games. The appearance of Linder and Wick, first and second place
winners in the Ashland to Boston marathon on April 12 added class to the assemblage and along with them were Jimmy Hennigan and many more well known pluggers in compete in the special 30-mile feature, all runners
scratched.Many were picking Warren Mansur
of Lowell high running, unattached to take the century dash, the first event
on the program and also the special 300-yard event for service men. The track looked fast and local records in several events were in danger of being struck off the books. J. J. Connolly of the B.A.A., the sensational Voburn high school boy, winner of the indoor thousand in Boston last winter, was the class of the mile. Although Harry Paine of the B.A.A. and J. H. Harrigan of Boston were looked upon as capable pace makers and were expected to be well up at the finish.
J. E. Jarrett, Lowell T.M.C.A. winner of the mile run on the common exposed, looked the best of the local entrants.Alfred Armstrong, ring master, with
years of experience, had the meet in complete charge and got the events
running in quick order. Mayor Perry
D. Thompson was present to present the prizes.CHILD'S LIFE SAVED
BY MOTORMANPeter U. Brassard, a former member of Battery F, was the hero of a life-saving stunt in Bridge street about 12:45 this afternoon when his quick work as motorman of an inbound Dracut Centre car undoubtedly saved the life of an unknown four or five-year-old child who ran in front of the car while it was going at a considerable rate of speed.The near-accident occurred at Bridge and Thirteenth streets. An outbound Dra-cut Centre car had just passed when the youngster in crossing Bridge street ran behind the outgoing car and directly in front of that coming toward Merrimack square. He managed to get just beyond the fender of the car but was knocked down by the forward step. In another second he would probably have been pushed in front of the wheels, but Motorman Brassard applied the brakes at once and the youngster got up and ran off uninjured. Mr. Brassard was congratulated by the passengers for his speedy work.If you want to buy, sell or exchange

Their Departed Comrades in Memorial Day ParadeMembers of the G.A.R., Spanish War Veterans and World War Heroes Form Trinity of Victory in Most Impressive Parade of Years—Semi-Military
and Civilian Organizations Escort Fighters—Exercises at Monument SquareGloriously resplendent in the late sunlight of a day whose perfection
seemed an expression of the triumph
of peace, the veterans of three great wars yesterday formed a solemn trinity of victory and walked together
through Lowell's streets as the nucleus of the city's 1919 Memorial day parade.There were veterans of tender age, in that procession and there were veterans whose drooping slip testified silently to the irresistible campaign of time. There were middle-aged veterans, but no matter what age or degree
of strength they were all veterans of great struggle, of great sacrifice and the true spirit of soldierhood—the best the city
had to offer in three successive generations.First came the men who knew Grant
when Grant was making history, who knew Gettysburg and the triumph of Appomattox court house; then there were the gallants of '98, the men whose veins vibrated with those of a Roosevelt when the menace of a southern nation seemed imminent; finally,
the new heroes who incorporated into
all languages the lexicon of Meuse, Chateau, Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Ar-goonne. Such was yesterday's Memorial day parade.Only 55 veterans of the Civil war answered the 1919 muster, a notable depreciation from the showing of the previous year. The Spanish War Veterans turned out in their usual generous numbers and the veterans of the world war turned out about 175 men,
a dozen of them being sailors.Escorting the fighting men were a host of other organizations—more than
in previous years—who stretched out
the procession to one of the longest Memorial day parades seen here in some time. It took a half hour for the line to proceed from the South common to Monument square, where the usual ceremonies were held and which, if anything, were more impressive than ever before.Well filled sidewalks formed an avenue of honor for the marchers as they tread the time-honored route through Thorndike, Middlesex, Central and
Merrimack streets to Monument square.
One of the features of the parade was
the fact that the chief marshal, Dudley
L. Page, and his staff were unmounted.
The first time that this has occurred in many years.Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department, in a machine, led the line
with four aids and was followed by 40 members of the police department,
an unusually large out-turning. Capt.
Thomas R. Atkinson was in command.
The officers made a splendid appearance. Lieut. Bartholomew Ryan, Lieut.

VISIT TO LOWELLComte de Sars-la-Comte, a native of Belgium, and in this country as a delegate of the Belgian immigration bureau and the Belgian consulate in Canada, is spending several days in Lowell, stopping at the Harrison house.
The count speaks hardly a word of English but is accompanied by two men who do and they serve as his interpreters. They are L. George Remington, manager of a Canadian company which controls orchard lands in Florida, and E. Vanasse of Montreal.Count de Sars is in Lowell on a rather peculiar mission, or at least novel. He is visiting many of the cities of the country for the purpose of obtaining information regarding the land and suitable homes for several thousand of his countrymen,
who have been stripped of home and
land by the ravages of war and who desire to emigrate to America. There are several hundred Belgians already in Canada, but the climate there is too cold and it is the desire of the Belgian government to find homes for them in warmer climates. Therefore,
Count de Sars' visit to Lowell.It is practically decided that many Belgians coming to this country will be sent to Florida, but the count is anxious to find as many suitable places
as possible. The Belgian people are splendid and economic tillers of the soil and are noted the world over for their ability to make the ground produce to its limit. They do not engage in large scale farming, but it is said that one family can live on a piece of land one-tenth the size used by any other people.Count de Sars will be very glad to have any Belgian people of Lowell
call upon him while he is in the city
and he is able to give them any desired information regarding immigration, etc.Although the count was above the
age limit set for active war service
he nevertheless worked indefatigably
for his country throughout the four years of war and for two of these
years was connected with a munitions
company in Paris. He says that many thousands of his people are destitute
and the problem of reconstruction in Belgium is almost limitless.Farrell & Conaton

SCHOOL ADDITIONArchitect Henry L. Bourke has submitted his plans for the new addition to the Morey grammar school to Commissioner George E. Marchand of the public property department and bids for the actual construction of the addition will be called for Monday.The new addition will consist of a basement and two stories. Included in the basement will be a manual training room, two shower rooms, a locker room, two toilets, an assembly hall, stage, auto-room, store room, laboratory and corridor.On the first floor will be two corridors, running at right angles; eight class rooms, two toilets, a teacher's room and a principal's office and private office.On the second floor, provisions are made for 10 class rooms and two toilets. The class rooms are of varying dimensions. The assembly hall in the basement is to be 64 by 83 feet and the laboratory 32 by 24 feet.The entire addition will measure 201 by 96 feet. The roof of the new building will be on a level with the upper floor of the old building and provisions have been made for an open air room in the old structure which will open out onto the roof of the annex. Four glass doors will provide entrance and exit and as far as is known, this will be Lowell's first open air school room.Mr. Bourke's plans call for a swimming pool in the rear of the building but Commissioner Marchand has not yet decided whether this will be constructed at once.FIRE IN LAWRENCE STREET BAKERYThe building numbered 467 Lawrence street, the street door of which is occupied by a bakery conducted by Alexander Johnston, was damaged by fire this morning to the extent of about $1500. The fire started in the oil of the building from the oven and soon spread to the second and third stories of the building proper. An alarm was sent in from box 216 at about 7:15 o'clock and when the firemen arrived on the scene they found that the blaze was making rapid progress. Several lines of hose were laid and after almost an hour's work the fire was extinguished. T. C. Lee & Co. carried the insurance on the building, which is owned by the Watson heirs, and on the contents of the bakery.

In Blood Diseases
Like Scrofula, Eczema and Many Skin Troubles

As well as a general Spring medicine for catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, Hood's Sarsaparilla is of great value to men, women, children.

It does its thorough work in these well-defined diseases by cleansing the blood on the pure, healthy condition of which depend the vigor and tone of the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is equally successful in the treatment of troubles that are not so well defined—cases of a low or run-down condition or general debility, loss of appetite and that tired feeling, or cases in which we see now and then the effects of the war and the debility following the grip, influenza and fevers. In all such ailments it has accomplished a wonderful amount of good.

SET FOR QUICK FINISH

Lowell Guild Waste Bags Will Be Collected in One, Two, Three Order

Everything is set to bring the Lowell Guild waste campaign to a speedy and triumphant finish. The city has been flooded with the big paper rag bags, and closets, attics, store-rooms, and cellars have undergone a thorough combing-out at the hands of Lowell housewives. In the neighborhoods where the bags were first distributed, practically every household has a filled bag in some convenient corner. The collecting process will begin Monday and the managers of the campaign hope to complete it in one, two, three orders, without a hitch anywhere. The collecting areas are thoroughly organized, and the work will be done in the same methodical manner that distributed the bags so satisfactorily.

Trucks Follow Bugler

Trucks will start out from various sections of the city and will proceed regularly through every street in each neighborhood. Several workers will accompany each truck. One of these is a bugler, who goes ahead in advance of the rest, blowing his bugle vigorously. This is the signal for housewives to have their contribution in readiness.

Following closely on the heels of the bugler come the advance collectors. They call at the houses on either side of the street, and bring the bags to the curb, and proceed to the next house. Then the truck comes along and the workers toss the bags onto it. An arm of Johnny Jones' worn-out overcoat shakes hands with the ragged sleeve of Tommy Smith's old red-sweater protruding from the next bag and they lie in wait for a couple of pals on the next street.

When the truck is all full, the whole friendly neighborhood of old, worn-out and waste clothes speeds off and is added to what has already been gathered to wait until all the bags in the city have been collected. Then the endless lot of cast-offs and waste material is sold and the net proceeds from the sale is added on to the contribution side of the Lowell Guild account book, and is used to help defray the expenses throughout the year.

Thousands of Children Suffer from Worms and Their Mothers Do Not Know What the Trouble Is

Signs of worms are: Deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

BOSTON, May 31.—Boston won two games from Philadelphia yesterday before large holiday crowds. The morning game was easy for the Braves, 6 to 3, while in the afternoon Dick Rudolph allowed the Phillies only four hits and shut them out, 6 to 0. The wrestling bout scheduled between Strangler Lewis and Mel Henderson for the Crescent rink on Thursday night did not materialize because of Henderson's failure to show up. Lewis and about 100 people were there, but at 8 o'clock when the missing wrestler did not put in an appearance the promoters called off the show.

Ninth Inning Rally Wins Morning Game Against Fitchburg, 6 to 5

Lowell's good looking ball club got a 50-50 break in yesterday's holiday games with Fitchburg, winning at Spaulding park in the morning, 6 to 5, and coming back to beat them again at Fitchburg in the afternoon, 6 to 3. About 1000 people saw the forenoon contest and more than 2000 cheering fans were out in Fitchburg at the matinee performance.

A little tired from their run-fest in Lawrence the day before, Mike Hayes' team looked beaten yesterday morning for eight innings, but came through with a vigorous batting rally in the ninth and copied the game result out of Fitchburg's bat bags. It was the second ninth inning finish of the week and showed that the local club is in the fighting until the last man goes out.

A CONVENIENCE

When you pick up your evening newspaper and glance over the advertising you quite unconsciously multiply yourself a thousand times.

In half or three-quarters of an hour you can, metaphorically speaking, visit every progressive store in town. You virtually poke your head into every department of every department store. You run into the florist's, the confectioner's, the oculist's, the leading grocer's, the book store, the theatre, all the various places that supply the things that make this the twentieth century and life worth the living. Here is a greater choice in clothing, food, furniture, books, pictures, musical instruments, travel, entertainment, opportunities for investment, the service of public utility corporations than any monarch of old could command.

It would easily take a thousand years, traveling hard all day, to find out for yourself what the advertisements tell you in a few minutes in the evening if printed in allotments due to the families of soldiers and sailors, because the bill providing for payment could not be promptly signed, owing to the president's absence in Europe. The president met the situation by calling an order to regard the bill as law and carry out its provisions as if it had been signed, stating that he would sign it as soon as it reached him. Thus the republicans, while losing one cause of complaint, are offered another. They will now howl because the president orders the carrying out of the provisions of a bill before they have actually become law. Thus it appears that the opposition to Wilson will howl anyhow, and apparently the president realizes the fact and is satisfied to let them howl on.

THE SUN

Lowell's Greatest Newspaper

HAWKER HALO FADES

Hawker, the aviator, greatly lowered himself in the estimation of his American admirers when he sneered at the American flight across the Atlantic and stated that it was the American success that forced him to start. Then Hawker's only aim was to beat the Americans, but he failed and it is with ill grace that a man who failed in the attempt belittles those who beat him in the race. Hawker's halo has faded.

King Albert is to visit Washington next October. Washington will hold nothing too good for the king. We will want to make him feel that the next best thing to being an American is to be king of the Belgians.

So Ruth Law is going to try the transatlantic flight. Well, we expected "Along would come Ruth" very soon. And it may be rather of a good bet the lady's wings take her over safely.

Year by year, the graves of the brave to be decorated increase.

Do your shopping early. July 1st is only 30 days away.

SEEN AND HEARD

A ball score of 22 to 10, and fights and wrestling matches that fail to materialize as advertised smell very strongly of the cunning industry.

Couldn't Find Him

"The 'orn of the 'unter is 'eard on the 'ill," said the little boy at the ragged school treat. But somehow his version of that line in "Kathleen Mavourneen" jarred on the nerves of the old squire.

"My little man," he said kindly, "why don't you put a few more stitches in your song?"

"Garn!" advised the little man, politely. "Don't you know there ain't no 'it in mossie? It only goes up to G!"—London Ideas.

Trained for Peace Work

Gen. H. P. McCain said in a review of the foreign legion at Camp Devens, Massachusetts:

"Training for war is hard and tedious work, but our men have always submitted to it with a good grace. I saw the other day a letter from a young college student in training. He wrote to his mother, a society leader of Boston:

"Dear Mother—I have put in a whole month now washing dishes, making beds, peeling potatoes and sweeping floors. I tell you what it is, mother, when I get back home from this war I'll make some girl a darn fine wife."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Pong New His Number

Lee Pong was brought before the local justice and fined for breaking the law. The judge had great difficulty in making the Oriental understand, as he feigned entire ignorance of English. Finally, in desperation, the judge said:

"Here man, do you see? That is one dollar. Pay it—or you go to jail." The Chinik still appeared to be unheeded and the magistrate repeated the question.

"Allow me to talk to him, your honor," burst forth the husky cop who had arrested him. "I'll make him understand."

"The officer approached the prisoner and shouted in his ear: 'Say, you with the teakettle face, can't you hear anything? You've got to pay a fine of two dollars.'"

"You're a liar!" shouted back the Chinik, "it's only one dollar."—Everybody's Magazine.

Danish Mary

"Twas Danish Mary picked them up Out of air and sea; A shoddy, trudging jolypun A-traveling stately."

The cry rang north, the cry rang south. "The vanished—where are they?" But Danish Mary shut her mouth. And shuffled on her way.

"Ho, Hawker!—Grrieve!" on flying said. Called kingdoms and called kings; But Danish Mary chewed her cud In drowsy manderings.

Now "Lost!" cried West, and "Lost!" cried East. "Thy 'Prigged!' like a pall. Turned bonfire-light and homing feast More dark than funeral."

And toward the hollow sky rose prayer And dirge of steeple-chime; But what should Danish Mary care? She takes her own sweet time.

And hawls to Lewis Butt: "It's me! I've picked 'em up—your men." "What!—Grrieve and Hawker?" "Sure!" And she Goes shambling on again.

But lightning engines flash and fight For news that rears its head. The jockies, swarm from bay and blight. And race to run her down.

And win, and hear her prize away— While Mary turns to prowl. Once more where slins the lumb, salt spray. And slaps her on the jowl. —By Percy Mackaye in New York Tribune.

THE AUDITORIUM SITE

With commendable celerity, the Lowell Auditorium commission has selected a site for the building, usually a very difficult task in such cases. Fortunately, there was no public controversy over the selection as in the case of the high school and the postoffice; and yet it is doubtful if public discussion could have brought to light any site that has more to commend it than that chosen on East Merrimack street.

The considerations that appealed most strongly to the commission in selecting this site in preference to any of the others offered as eligible, were its central location within a minute's walk from Merrimack square, the centre of the street car system, its convenient accessibility, its ample area and isolation from other property and finally, its comparatively moderate cost.

Owing to the fact that the site will be clear of all other property and bounded on one side by the Concord river, it offers great possibilities of development along aesthetic lines.

It is encouraging to know that the building is to be, as it should be, one of the most attractive in our city, and that it will not be crowded in with other property as was the old Huntington hall, a fact that on two occasions led to its destruction. There will be ample room around this building to provide all the exits necessary, with plenty of space for carriages or automobiles on all sides.

The location of the Auditorium on the East Merrimack street site will undoubtedly bring about an increase in the value of property on the opposite side of the street and for a considerable distance in the vicinity. Indeed, it is not too much to expect that in a very short time, as a result of the Auditorium being erected there, the increase in the value of real estate in the vicinity will fully compensate for the withdrawal of this property from the taxable assets of the city.

For some years past, much of the property on Howe and Davidson streets as well as on lower Fayette street, has been allowed to run down to a condition bordering on dilapidation. The district has suffered severely from the effects of the old tannery formerly located on Howe street, the odor of which, at certain seasons of the year, was almost sufficient to stifle the entire neighborhood. There will soon be an inducement to tear down all the old structures in that district and erect modern up-to-date buildings with a sufficient number of stores to accommodate the business necessities of the locality.

This, however, belongs to the future and the public will look now for the next step in the work, which will be the clearance of the site of all its buildings. That need not be started until the plans are completed, so that the occupants will have ample time to find other abodes.

The site has the advantage of being obtainable at a comparatively low price, so that sufficient funds will remain to construct a building of which the city may well feel proud, one that in every up-to-date feature should compare with any of its size in the entire country.

JEWISH POGROMS

The demonstration held in Boston on Wednesday evening, in protest against the Jewish pogroms in Poland, was one of very great importance. If conditions are as represented in Poland, prompt action is necessary to bring about a change. It is alleged that thousands of Jews were slaughtered by the Polish army without cause and chiefly through racial enmity. This is certainly disgraceful for the new Polish republic, and we are assured that Paderewski would never countenance any such outrage.

In the new order of things, this racial prejudice and religious intolerance must be stamped out. It is encouraging to know from President Wilson that in the constitution of the new states to be established, by the peace congress, provision will be made for religious freedom for all races and peoples. It is certainly time that some effective action were taken to put a stop to the persecution of the Jews in different parts of Europe. It would indeed be deplorable if any of the new states should attempt to carry out a policy of discrimination such as that which was so popular in Russia under the late czar.

The Boston protest should have its effect in causing the peace congress to take such action as will restrain the armies of the European states from such outbreaks of frenzy or intolerance as are reported from Poland and some other states. It is unbelievable that any such atrocity has been authorized by the Polish or any other government on the continent outside Germany, Bulgaria or Turkey. After the conclusion of peace, we expect that a greater spirit of toleration will pervade the European countries and that in due time these nations will forget their jealousies and decide to treat one another with a fraternal spirit such as is contemplated, if not made mandatory in the League of Nations.

That was an important conference on Americanization held in Boston Wednesday. Among other points brought to light was one showing that foreigners are not treated with strict justice in this country on account of the mode of procedure in our courts. The man who has money has the upper hand in the courts. In the federal courts, an appeal may be entered without prepayment; but not so in the others. Hence, the man who has not the money is at a disadvantage in the battle. It appears that there is need for reform in this respect and the so called Legal Aid society, if honestly directed, may accomplish that object.

Then it was also shown that immigrants are frequently the victims of exploitation by the unscrupulous, both in the matter of legal fees and in finding employment.

All these drawbacks may be overcome by a knowledge of English that will enable the foreigners to talk freely with their American neighbors and those with whom they work in the factories.

In many cases, foreigners are victims of accidents due mainly to the fact that they do not understand the instructions given them in reference to dangerous machinery. Facilities unequalled in the past will be offered the foreigners who desire to learn English. The evening schools have not proved satisfactory and now the government is financing other methods to be conducted on a large scale under the federal state program.

It is gratifying to find this work of Americanization assuming systematic form and being pushed by men who have the enthusiasm necessary to success.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

It isn't often one meets as interesting a soldier lad as Sergt. "Bill" Wood, lately returned from more than 11 months' service overseas where he saw as much action in the fighting game as any of the glibest Yanks. Sergt. Wood makes a fine, striking-looking soldier, for in the days before the war he was an exponent of physical culture, a speedy runner, a jumper and a disciple of Isaac Walton and since he has come home, they tell me, an ardent golfer who can give Clerk Flaherty of the license commission a run for his money. Harry, you know, has been rounding into shape as an expert golfer a la Francis Ouimet. "Bill" Wood can regale you with many interesting stories of his adventures as a member of the 79th Division. He was in the thick of the fight in the fastness of the Argonne in September, went over the top several times and faced the deadly machine gun fire of the Huns, coming out unscathed.

If ever there was an open ear day it was last Thursday and many a man or maid would willingly have dropped a dime into the coffers of Bill Day State for a refreshing whirl into the countryside. Was "Bill" awake to his opportunities which were knocking at his door with a 55 millimetre bang? Nay, not so; not in this good community, at any rate. William was pitifully somnolent. Evidently he and the weather man had no telepathic relations. Very rare were the open cars on that day when the mercury had become heatedly ambitious. Once in a while the good young ladies who were about to take part in the high school field day exercises at Spalding park had the pleasure of an open car but the majority of them had to tolerate closely packed closed cars. Perhaps it was a little early in the season for the open "boats," but one would think that the Day State would be ready for emergencies. Better luck next time, perhaps. Everybody hopes so.

It was my good fortune yesterday to see what represents the abortive attempt to remedy the housing problem for industrial cities as carried out in Lowell by the Massachusetts Homestead commission over in Centerville in the plot off Hildreth street. Here was an idea that started to be right but the failure was so glaring that it finally became ridiculous. I have been intending ever since last summer to see the alleged model houses. I don't see what in the world the architect had in mind when he planned these homes, in regard to their size and convenience, unless he believed they were to be occupied by newlyweds on their honeymoon and for a not much longer time. Certainly they offer no accommodations adequate for the average Lowell family.

You have oftentimes heard of the fantasy of going along a street and lifting off the roof of every man's home and seeing how he and his family are occupied. Of course it can't be done, but in connection with these Homestead homes it is very nearly attained for when the visitor comes into the front door I notice that he finds himself right up plump and face to face with the kitchen sink, set tub and all the busy activities connected with the housewife's work in the kitchen. There are about five of the tenements vacant at the present time. I was surprised that even with the cramped accommodation they offer, they had not long ago been snapped up. A neighbor tells me that the Homestead commission has arbitrarily made a ruling that will not let any of the vacant tenements and the only way you will get a chance to further appreciate the bone-headedness of the man who designed these houses, is to take them off the hands of the Homestead commission by buying them. Well unless conditions get much worse than most of us expect, we predict it will be quite some time before the Homestead gets a chance to deed these shacks to some hard pressed family man, and especially at the prices I understand the commission is holding them at the present time. The houses must be remodeled and enlarged before they can be sold at anything like what they cost.

POST 185 G.A.R. VETS GUESTS AT SUPPER

Admiral Farragut Camp, Sons of Veterans, the Daughters of Veterans and the Sons of Veterans' auxiliary, were hosts at supper last evening to members of Post 185, G.A.R., at the vestry of the First Universalist church, Hurd street.

The toastmaster was Commander John G. Parker, of the Sons of Veterans. Immediately at the close of the big parade, the band and Sons of Veterans as escort, marched to the church where a bountiful and typical Grand Army supper was served. Two special guests of the occasion were Rev. N. W. Matthews and Rev. C. E. Fisher, D. D., pastor of the church where the supper was held.

The divine blessing was invoked by Rev. Mr. Matthews. Mr. Michael Brennan sang a group of songs in his voice. Dr. Fisher, in making a short address said:—"Sometimes there is a tendency on the part of some of our people to call this day we now honor, 'Decoration day.' Most of the Grand Army men and persons interested in general, object to its being called by this name and there is probably good grounds for their objection. It rather seems as if the name, 'Memorial day' illustrated what the day really means better than any other expression."

"It has been well said by a certain great man of our country that the name America stands for an ideal of American life and that the man who will question this ideal can have no place in our life and should not feel he is welcome among us."

Rev. N. W. Matthews made a short address in which he spoke of having ridden during the afternoon with a veteran of the early American navy, Comrade Russell, now over 80 years of age who was one of the brave seamen on the Kearsarge when she sank the Alabama. He said that Memorial day and its significance was an idea that he believed would spread all over the civilized world and that even yesterday Memorial day exercises were taking place in the city of London to honor American dead in all her great wars.

James O'Sullivan, an honorary member of Post 185, was presented and made a stirring patriotic speech. He said that he stood for the slogan of "American first" and all that it stood for.

When you feel that your stomach, liver or blood is out of order, renew their health by taking for and that to his mind, the great thing in connection with the peace conference now on was for Americans to see to it that at the conclusion of the peace negotiations America was the same kind of a country it was in 1914.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson was present and introduced as a long tried friend of Grand Army men. He made a speech in which he alluded to the matter of Memorial hall as a meeting place for the veterans and said he believed before another Memorial day the city would have fulfilled its duty of providing a place of meeting for the veterans at which they would not have to climb stairs as they have so often and with justice, complained of, in connection with Memorial hall.

Nearly 300 persons attended the supper. The service flag of the Sons of Veterans camp with its 16 stars, including two gold stars, was given a place of honor on the platform and Pastor Matthews called for the audience to stand in the attitude of silent prayer as a mark of respect to the memory of the men the two gold stars represent, G. Ralph Cressey and F. D. Pickering. The ladies of the Grand Army veterans were also guests of the organizations providing the supper. The closing exercises included some stereoscopic pictures of the great war shown by L. A. Derby and the singing of the national anthem.

BLEW TAPS AT GRAVE OF GEN. BUTLER

An unprogrammed incident of Memorial day that was nevertheless one of the most impressive, pathetic and picturesque things that took place in a Memorial day of unusual solemnity happened at Hildreth cemetery, Centerville, yesterday afternoon, at about the time the members of Admiral Farragut camp, No. 78, Sons of Veterans, were preparing to march back to the centre of the city after having decorated the graves of dead patriots.

A taxicab drew up in Hildreth street in front of the cemetery and out of it stepped Brig.-Gen. Philip Teild, U.S.A., retired, and Trooper Haynes, U.S.A., retired. Gen. Teild, who is now making his home at West Point, N. Y., said he came to Lowell to pay a last tribute to his friend and benefactor, Gen. B. F. Butler.

Upon hearing this Commander Parker ordered the Sons of Veterans to stand at attention and then gave an order for the firing detail to accompany Gen. Teild back into the cemetery.

Arrived at the grave of General Butler, Gen. Teild unwrapped a well preserved copper army bugle and blew "taps" and his notes from the old Civil war bugle rang clear, sweet and distinct. The firing detail then fired a volley over Gen. Butler's last resting place.

After this had taken place, General Teild made a very short address in which he said that as a boy hero in Lowell Gen. Butler had taken a very great interest in him. He said Gen. Butler got him interested in learning how to shoot a rifle and taught him something about playing the bugle. Afterwards Gen. Butler assisted him when he determined to take the examination for West Point. He said that the old soldier with him, Trooper Haynes, had served as his faithful orderly while both were fighting Indians in the campaign of 1878, and that both he and the trooper had fought in the Civil war. Growing old and more or less feeble, he said he had determined to come to Lowell this Memorial day and pay his last respects to his beloved friend in the way that one soldier would wish to be honored by another—by the blowing of the soldier's last call—"taps."

The Sons of Veterans all shook hands with the general and Trooper Haynes, and they were taken to the station and started on the way back to New York state in a motor car, with one or two Sons of Veterans accompanying them, as honor-guests of the city and of Lowell's G.A.R. and the Sons of Veterans' camp.

WILSON APPEALS FOR THE LEAGUE

Will Be a Guarantee to Mothers of the World Against Such Sacrifice

PARIS, May 31.—President Woodrow Wilson, in an address yesterday at the graves of the American dead, in Suresnes cemetery, near Paris, said the League of Nations was the covenant of governments that the millions who fell in the great war shall not have died in vain and added that he looked for the time when every man who now opposes the league would be just as much ashamed of it as if he now regretted the union of the United States after the Civil war.

Declaring that the standards of an older order are trying to assert themselves again, the president said that those who sought to accomplish the return to "an order of which we are ashamed" must realize that they cannot succeed because "the peoples of the world are in the saddle" and "private councils of statesmen cannot now and cannot hereafter determine the destinies of nations."

Spoke to Great 'Throng'

President Wilson yesterday made his first reference to the League of Nations since the covenant of the society which will have as its object the prevention of future wars was completed.

His words were delivered in the presence of thousands of American soldiers and many civilians, and the official representatives of the French government, distinguished members of allied officialdom who had come to pay tribute to the American dead also heard the president's words.

Touching upon the reasons which had brought the American troops across seas, the president said they had come to defeat the things for which the central powers stood—"the arrogant, selfish domination which they intended to establish; and they came, moreover, to see to it that there never should be a war like this again."

"It is for us, particularly for us who are civilized," the president continued, "to use our proper weapons of counsel and agreement, see to it that there never is such a war again. The nation that should now fling out of this common concord of counsel would betray the human race."

"So it is our duty to take and maintain the safeguards which will see to it that the mothers of America and the mothers of France, and England and Italy and Belgium and all other suffering nations should never be called upon for this sacrifice again. This can be done. It must be done. And it will be done."

The president declared that the day of secret councils was past, because the people were in the saddle. The

STRIKING PARAGRAPHS FROM WILSON'S ADDRESS

These men who lie here are men of a unique breed. Their like has not been seen since the far days of Crusades.

The beauty of this war is that it has brought a new partnership and a new comradeship and a new understanding into the field of effort of the Nations.

It is for us, particularly for us who are civilized, to use our proper weapons of counsel and agreement to see to it that there never is such a war again. The Nation that should now fling out of this common concord of counsel would betray the human race.

The League of Nations is the covenant of agreement that these men shall not have died in vain.

You are aware, as I am aware, that the standards of an older order are trying to assert themselves again. There is here and there an attempt to insert into the council of the statesmen, the old reckoning of selfishness and hargaining and National advantage which were the roots of this war, and any man who counsels these things advocates a renewal of the sacrifice which these men have made. * * * Let these gentlemen realize they cannot accomplish it. The peoples of the world are awake and the peoples of the world are in the saddle.

Private councils of statesmen cannot now and cannot hereafter determine the destinies of Nations. If we are not the servants of the opinion of mankind, we are of all men the vilest, most contemptible the least gifted with vision.

So many things have happened, and they have happened so fast in the last four years, that I do not think many of us realize what it is that has happened. * * * I was told before I came to France that there would be confusion of counsels about this thing and I found unity. I was told that there would be opposition and I found union of action. I found the statesmen * * * united in the idea * * * that we must conceive some common organization by which we should give our common faith that this peace would be maintained. * * * We have listened to the challenge and that is the proof that there shall never be a war like this again.

I sent these ladies over here to die. Shall I—can I—ever speak a word of counsel which is inconsistent with the assurances I gave them when they came over? It is inconceivable!

Private councils of statesmen, he added, would no longer determine the destinies of nations.

Bareheaded, in the glare of the sun, President Wilson spoke for more than half an hour, most of the time in an impassioned defence of the League of Nations and in appeal for its support.

An Impressive Scene

The cemetery is situated on the hillside of the ancient fortress of Mt. Valerien. With the old buildings at his back, the president looked over the graves of the American soldiers and down into the city of Paris, which stood in the distance like a panorama. The approaches to the cemetery and the paths winding their way through the burial ground were lined with soldiers standing at attention, American on one side and French on the other, as the president arrived.

The greater part of the khaki-clad listeners to the president's speech were grouped in the shade of the old fort, but a crowd of other soldiers and civilians pressed close to the speaker's stand. There was unwavering attention by all to the president's utterances, and when he concluded his auditors warmly applauded him. Captain Andre Tardieu, the French high commissioner who was in the stand with President Wilson, listened attentively to the speech.

During his address the president never faltered in his diction. Earnestness marked his word. From a near-by point Mrs. Wilson listened to her husband. She and the president drove to the cemetery in different automobiles, and Mrs. Wilson remained in her car instead of going upon the speaker's stand.

Before President Wilson began his speech a message to the president from Premier Clemenceau dealing with the fellowship between the French and Americans was read.

With the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "The Marseillaise" by the band and the sounding of "taps" by the bugler, the official program ended, but President Wilson afterwards personally deposited a wreath in honor of the American dead in the names of the Boy Scouts of America.

During the ceremony a reminder of the war floated at anchor near-by—one of the observation balloons which used to do sentry duty on the various fronts.

LOWELL ENTERTAINERS AT CAMP DEVENS

Thirty Lowell young women journeyed to Camp Devens Thursday evening and staged a show and dancing party for the boys from "over there" and as on many Thursday evenings during the past months proved themselves a sure enough cure for any case of the "blues" which existed among the boys who fought and won and who are marking time at the cantonment until they hear that most welcome of all orders—"homeward bound." The event was given at the Jewish Welfare but under the auspices of the Lowell Jewish Welfare board, the party being chaperoned, as on former occasions by Mrs. Louis Carp.

It was somewhat warm in the hut Thursday evening, but the boys didn't seem to care. The girls from Lowell didn't seem to care, either. And they sang and danced their way into the hearts of the lonesome men who had followed Old Glory through thick and thin, and all the time the men called for just a little more! and when their khaki-clad audience finally allowed them to take a brief respite while the floor was cleared for dancing it is a safe bet that their entire repertoire was exhausted.

Following the show, which consisted of a series of vocal and musical selections by some of the city's proficient amateur talent, aided and abetted by several young folks from Lawrence who had volunteered to add their bit of entertainment to the program mapped out by the local party, impromptu dancing was in order.

The first number on the entertainment program consisted of piano selections by Miss V. Garritty, and the way she made that piano talk won the hearty and enthusiastic approval of her audience. Miss Garritty also provided the accompaniment to the songs of the other members of the party.

And next came Miss Alice Dion. If you have had the pleasure of hearing this young woman sing then you know what that simple statement really means. Miss Dion can sing, we'll say. Yes, sir. Her first number was "Mammy O Mine," and she followed this with "I Want a Doll." She tried to get away then, but the boys couldn't see it for a moment, and she sang "Rosie Riroola."

But when she sang that song of all songs, "Till We Meet Again"—oh, boy! That the roof stayed on was a miracle. The way the local baseball fans give the home team three times three when the winning run is scored paled into absolute insignificance beside the volume of sound with which the boys showed their approval of this wonderful song and the singer. And so Miss Dion sang it again and the boys sang with her, and then she escaped.

"Minnie at the Movies" was the title of the recitation which followed Miss Dion's efforts, and which was given by Miss Mary Cohen. Perhaps you've never heard this truly classic recitation of "Minnie's" experience the while she and her chum watched the exploits of the screen stars. If so you've missed a treat. At least, the boys said so. And little Miss Cohen brought down the house and then some when she had finished.

Miss C. Boyle was the next Lowell artist to appear, and gave her own original conception of the terpsichorean art. Miss Boyle knows all the old steps and a lot of the new ones, and made one of the hits of the evening.

Miss L. O'Neill in songs came next, and this young woman went way over the top. "Till We Meet Again" for a

MEMORIAL MASSES IN LOCAL CHURCHES

A memorial mass for the deceased members of the 101st Regiment was celebrated at the Immaculate Conception church yesterday morning.

The service was held at 8.30 o'clock and was largely attended. At the opening of the service "The Star Spangled Banner" was played on the organ by Mrs. Hugh Walker and in the course of the mass a special musical program was given by an augmented choir. In attendance were the members of the 101st Ladies' Auxiliary as well as numerous relatives and friends of the deceased members of this popular organization. The celebrant was the pastor, Rev. Lawrence P. Tighe, O.M.I., who was assisted by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. James B. McCartin, O.M.I., as sub-deacon.

St. Peter's Church
At St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock yesterday morning a solemn high mass of requiem for the repose of the souls of the deceased soldiers and sailors of the parish was celebrated. The congregation was large, there being many uniformed men present, and a special musical program was given by the regular church choir. The celebrant of the mass was the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Keleher, assisted by Rev. D. J. Jefferson as deacon and Rev. Fr. Shea as sub-deacon.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES
The commencement exercises of the class of 1919, Lowell Textile school, will be held on Tuesday afternoon, June 10, at 2.30 o'clock. As in past years the graduation program will be given in Southwick hall at the school.

WOMEN WORKERS
In almost every line of war activities the women of this country have done well and have taken front rank, for doing work that released thousands of men for service overseas. Some women have been over-ambitious, and, at the expense of their health, have filled places once occupied by men. Every woman who, because of overwork, has brought on some ailment, peculiar to her sex, should depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore her health and strength, as this remedy is now recognized as the standard and has restored multitudes.—Adv.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31.—Ralph

De Palma led at the end of the first 100 miles in the 500-mile automobile race today. Babbitt was second and L. V. Chevrolet, third. G. Chevrolet, was fourth. All records of the speedway for that distance were broken, the average speed being 92.70 miles an hour.W. W. Brown pulled into the pits with a broken connecting rod.
At 76 miles Beyer went into the pit on three wheels and was declared out of the race.Arthur Thurman turned over on the north turn on the 11th lap. It was reported from the judge's stand that he was killed and his mechanic seriously injured.There was some confusion immediately after the accident, whether it was Thurman or his mechanic that was killed. Later it was announced that Thurman was dead and that M.
Molhare, the mechanic, had a fractured skull.At 200 miles G. Chevrolet had to stop at the pit and changed from first to third position. De Palma took the lead by the change, with Wilcox second. Others in order were L. Chevrolet, E. Cooper, Lecon and Hearn. The average speed was 91.20 miles an hour.Babbitt's car, driven by J. Chassagne, his relief driver, turned over. A Ro-miguire, mechanic, was injured seriously. Chassagne was hurt slightly.Thurman, the driver killed shortly before the turning over of Babbitt's car was from Newark, N. J. It was his first race on a brick track.Various difficulties put the cars driving by Durrant and Klein out of the race.

Two Burned to Death

Lecon and R. Baudini, his mechanician, both burned to death on the back stretch of the speedway when their car caught fire.

Dash Through Blaze

Lecon's car caught fire while rounding the southeast turn of the track.
The machine turned over and the men therein were covered with flaming gasoline. Both men burned for five minutes before guards and spectators extinguished the flames. The burning gas spread over the track and several of the speeding cars were compelled to dash through the blaze.Both Lecon and Baudini were said to be from Los Angeles. They were running in the 10th lap when the accident occurred.

away in the foot hills of South Lowell
opened its gates to half a hundred of
the state's best athletes this afternoon and under a cloudless sky conducted its annual handicap track and field games. The appearance of Vander and Wick, first and second place
winners in the Ashland to Boston marathon on April 19 added class to the assemblage and along with them were Jimmy Heenanigan and many more well known pluggers to compete in the special 10-mile feature, all runners
scratched.Many were picking Warren Mansur
of Lowell high, running unattached to
take the century dash, the first event
on the program and also the special 300-yard event for service men. The
track looked fast and local records in
several events were in danger of being struck off the books. J. J. Connelly of the B.A.A., the sensational Woburn high school boy, winner of the indoor thousand in Boston last winter, was the class of the M.A.A., and John H. Harrigan of Boston were looked upon as capable pace makers and were hoped to be well up at the finish.
J. E. Jarrett, Lowell Y.M.C.A. winner of the mile run on the common yesterday, looked the best of the local entrants.Alfred Armstrong, ring master, with
years of experience, had the meet in
complete charge and got the events
running in quick order. Mayor Perry
D. Thompson was present to present the prizes.

World War Heroes Form Trinity of Victory in Most Impressive Parade of Years—Semi-Military

cises at Monument Square

Gloriously resplendent in the late

sunlight of a day whose perfection
seemed an expression of the triumph
of peace, the veterans of three great
wars yesterday formed a solemn trinity of victory and walked together
through Lowell's streets as the nucleus
of the city's 1919 Memorial day parade.There were veterans of tender ages in that procession and there were veterans whose drooping step testified silently to the irresistible campaign of time. There were middle-aged veterans; but no matter what age or degree
of strength they were all veterans of direct carriage; eager step and the true spirit of soldierdom—the best the city
had to offer in three successive generations.First came the men who knew Grant
when Grant was making history, who
knew Gettysburg and the triumph of Appomattox court house; then there were the gallant of '98, the men
whose veins vibrated with those of a Roosevelt when the menace of a southern action seemed imminent; finally,
the new heroes who incorporated into
all languages the lexicon of Meuse, Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Argonne. Such was yesterday's Memorial day parade.Only 55 veterans of the Civil war au-dered the 1919 muster, a notable depreciation from the showing of the previous year. The Spanish War Veterans turned out in their usual generous numbers and the veterans of the world war turned out about 175 men,
a dozen of them being sailors.Escorting the fighting men were a host of other organizations—more than
in previous years—who stretched out
the procession to one of the longest Memorial day affairs seen here in some time. It took a half hour for the line
to proceed from the South common to Monument square, where the usual ceremonies were held and which, if anything, were more impressive than ever before.Well filled sidewalks formed an avenue of honor for the marchers as they
tread the time-honored route through Thorndike, Middlesex, Central and
Merrimack streets to Monument square.
One of the features of the parade was
the fact that the chief marshal, Dudley
I. Page, and his staff were unmounted,
the first time that this has occurred in many years.Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department, in a machine, led the line
with four aids and was followed by 40 members of the police department,
an unusually large out-turning. Capt.
Thomas R. Atkinson was in command.
The officers made a splendid appearance. Lieut. Bartholomew Ryan, Lieut.
John Freeman, Sergt. Peter McManmonand Sergt. Samuel Bigelow were in line.
Presenting a snappy appearance were 30 members of the fire department in uniform who came next in line. Chief Edward F. Saunders commanded them and he was assisted by District Chiefs Daniel Crowley and Thomas F. Saunders.Then came the "officer of the day," Chief Marshal Dudley I. Page, presented his usual soldierly appearance and looking every inch the veteran of a national conflict and innumerable Memorial day parades. He was unmounted, as was his staff.Old Lowell

VISIT TO LOWELLComte de Sars-le-Comte, a native of Belgium, and in this country as a delegate of the Belgian immigration
bureau and the Belgian consulate in Canada, is spending several days in Lowell, stopping at the Harrissania.The count speaks hardly a word of English but is accompanied by two
men, who do and they serve as his
interpreters. They are L. George Remington, manager of a Canadian company which controls orchard lands in Florida, and P. Vanasse of Montreal.Count de Sars is in Lowell on a rather peculiar mission, or at least
novel. He is visiting many of the cities of the country for the purpose of obtaining information regarding the land and suitable homes for
several thousand of his countrymen,
who have been stripped of home and
land by the ravages of war and who desire to emigrate to America. There are several hundred Belgians already
in Canada, but the climate there is too cold and it is the desire of the Belgian government to find homes for them in warmer climates. Therefore,
Count de Sars' visit to Lowell.It is practically decided that many Belgians coming to this country will be sent to Florida, but the count is
anxious to find as many suitable places
as possible. The Belgian people are splendid and economic tillers of the
soil and are noted the world over for
their ability to make the ground produce to its limit. They do not engage in large scale farming, but it is said that one family can live on a piece of land one-tenth the size used
by any other people.Count de Sars will be very glad to have any Belgian people of Lowell
call upon him while he is in the city
and he is able to give them any desired information regarding immigration, etc.Although the count was above the
age limit set for active war service
he nevertheless worked indefatigably
for his country throughout the four years of war and for two of these
years was connected with a munitions
company in Paris. He says that many thousands of his people are destitute
and the problem of reconstruction in Belgium is almost limitless.Farrell & Conaton

TRUANT OFFICERS MEET

School Attendance Officers
Hold Meeting at Middlesex County Training SchoolThe Massachusetts School Attendance Officers—truant officers in former days—have been holding a meeting and general good time, at Middlesex County Training school, North Chelmsford all day today and nearly 50 have been in attendance, coming mostly from the eastern part of the state.Apparently many of these officers believe the present method of compelling delinquent boys to training schools and schools of similar character, is capable of being improved. It was seen in the warm discussion that took place at North Chelmsford today that the present system of committing a boy indefinitely is far from meeting with unanimous favor.As the result of the discussion which took place the members voted to submit the entire matter to the legislative committee with the request that this committee make a report next February at the annual meeting. It is desired, apparently, that a system be devised so that when a boy at the school wins a certain number of merits for good behavior and good work, he shall be eligible to have his indeterminate commitment shortened to one month, three months, six months, or a year, the shortening to be made at the discretion of the judge who commits him to the training school.The meeting was presided over by President William F. Thornton of Lowell, school attendance officer here.
The secretary is M. J. English of Worcester and Nathan Upham of Fitchburg, vice president.One other important piece of business transacted today was the unanimous adoption of a motion which is a form of protest on the part of these officers against what they claim is a restoration of the taking of the school census. A bill restoring this census is now in the house of representatives. The association will by delegation, appear before the educational committee of the house, which is to deal with the bill, and protest against restoration of the school census. The argument today was to the effect that urban population was too transient to warrant a census.

ELSE JANIS RETURNS

Home After 15 Months
"Over There"—Gave 610
Performances For Troops

NEW YORK, May 31.—Miss Elsie Janis, actress, attached to the American Expeditionary Force by order of General Pershing, returned today from France after 15 months with the troops. She gave 610 performances during her work of making the dough-boys' life more enjoyable.

"I am engaged to the whole A.E.F.," she said. "It is simply impossible for me to pick out any one of those thousands of wonderful boys. Some people talk of my having sacrificed a lot of money by giving up my engagements here. I would not have missed the education I have had in knowing Americans as they were in the army in France for all the money in the world. They are healthy in body, mind and heart. They are good fighters, good eaters and good (Miss Janis accented this 'good') drinkers."

GRADUAL SETTLEMENT OF WINNIPEG TIE-UP

WINNIPEG, Man. May 31.—With arbitration conferences under way on the basic industrial dispute of the general strike—the walkout of the metal trades—and hundreds of employees returning to work, gradual settlement of the civic and industrial tie-up, which has been almost complete since May 15, was beginning today.

Edmonton dispatches indicated resumption of public services was complete there, although strike headquarters asserted workers in 32 trades were still out.

Votes on a general strike now being taken at Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., will be announced within a few days.

Reports from the mining districts in Ontario and British Columbia said that the labor situation at Cobalt and Fernie was acute.

When members of the railroad brotherhoods succeeded yesterday in beginning the arbitration conference, efforts to replace striking workers generally slackened, except in the police, fire and postal services. Officials of the brotherhood warned maintenance of way employees in Winnipeg and to the west, not to consider sympathetic strike votes or attempt to walk out in violation of their contracts.

Strike in Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., May 31.—Conciliatory continued efforts today to settle the sympathetic strike inaugurated yesterday to aid the striking metal workers. Meantime the business of the city appeared to be going on as usual. Millions of dollars' worth of riot insurance has been written.

No additions to the unions called out yesterday were reported at the Labor Temple today, though it was stated the leaders expected that the street railway employees would decide at a midnight mass meeting to go out.

WAGES INCREASED BY GOVERNMENT CONTROL

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Government control of the telephone and telegraph properties resulted in larger demands for wage increases than would have been made if the properties had continued under private operation, N. C. Kingsbury, vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., told the house interstate commerce committee today at its hearing on legislation for return of the wires.

"Under this public operation has the government received anything that it would not have received from private operation?" he was asked.

"I know of nothing," was the reply.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Harold Price, aged about 11 years, son of Louis Price, who conducts a jewelry store in Middlesex street, had a narrow escape from drowning late Thursday afternoon while bathing in the Jackson canal. The little fellow was caught in an eddy and carried down stream as far as the gates to the water wheels of the Hamilton Mfg. Co., where he was rescued by Joseph A. Proulx of 143 Merrimack street, an employee in the office of the Saco-Lowell shops foundry. Mr. Proulx saw the boy struggling in the water as he was being carried down the stream and threw a rope to him, but the little fellow was unable to retain his hold on the rope. Mr. Proulx walked along the steel beam across the canal and succeeded in grabbing the boy just as he was about to be carried into the water wheels of the mill by the strong current.

SCHOONER SINKS OFF SANDY HOOK

NEW YORK, May 31.—The Mary A. Hall, a schooner of 381 tons gross, sailing from Stonington, Conn., sank today off the west bank lighthouse, near Sandy Hook. The vessel went aground on Rorer shoals last Tuesday but was floated the same day without assistance. She had cleared from New York for Buenos Aires.

HOLD ANNUAL OUTING

The annual outing of the members of Club Citizens-Americans was held yesterday jointly with the members of the Naturalization club of Lawrence, the event being conducted at Doolley's grove on the Lawrence road. The attendance was large and the program, which consisted of sports and music, proved very enjoyable. In the course of the day refreshments were served.

DECREASE IN PRICE OF BEEF AT HAND

CHICAGO, May 31.—A decrease in the price of beef is "immediately at hand," according to a statement issued today by the bureau of public relations, American Meat Packers' association.

"Despite the fact that beef already is cheaper than pork, poultry and mutton, it probably will decline further within the next few days," said the statement. "There are several reasons. Cheaper grass-fed cattle, which hitherto have not been plentiful, are now moving in market. Exports of beef from the United States have practically ceased. The government has stopped buying. It may take a few days for the lower price to reach the customer. The reason is obvious. It lies in the fact that appreciable time elapses between arrival of cheaper steers at markets and the appearance of beef from those steers on the consumers' tables. The retailer cannot lower his price until he replenishes his stock of beef at the reduced prices expected."

"But from all indications it seems fairly certain that, although depletion of European herds and unprecedented demands will hold meat prices above normal, nevertheless a decrease in the wholesale and subsequently in the retail price of beef is immediately at hand. It is thought that the consumption of beef then may be greatly increased."

MARRIAGE ANNIVERSARY

On the occasion of the 20th anniversary of their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lajeunesse of Athol street, were last evening tendered a reception by their many relatives and friends. The couple were showered with congratulations and best wishes, while they were also the recipients of numerous appropriate gifts. A musical program was given and refreshments were served.

As well as a general Spring medicine for catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, Hood's Sarsaparilla is of great value to man, woman, children. It does its thorough work in these well-defined diseases by cleansing the blood, on the pure, healthy condition of which depend the vigor and tone of the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is equally successful in the treatment of troubles that are not so well defined—cases of a low or run-down condition or general debility, loss of appetite and that tired feeling, or cases in which we see now very plainly after-effects of the worry and anxiety caused by the world war and the debility following the grip, influenza and fever. In all such ailments it has accomplished a wonderful amount of good.

PLANS FOR MOREY SCHOOL ADDITION

Architect Henry L. Rourke has submitted his plans for the new addition to the Morey grammar school to Commissioner George E. Marchand of the public property department and bids for the actual construction of the addition will be called for Monday.

The new addition will consist of a basement and two stories. Included in the basement will be a manual training room, two shower rooms, a locker room, two toilets, an assembly hall, stage, ante-room, store room, laboratory and corridor.

On the first floor will be two corridors, running at right angles; eight class rooms, two toilets, a teacher's room and a principal's office and private office.

On the second floor provisions are made for 10 class rooms and two toilets. The class rooms are of varying dimensions. The assembly hall in the basement is to be 64 by 34 feet and the laboratory 32 by 24 feet.

The entire addition will measure 201 by 66 feet. The roof of the new building will be on a level with the upper floor of the old building and provisions have been made for an open air room in the old structure which will open out onto the roof of the annex. Four glass doors will provide entrance and exit and as far as is known, this will be Lowell's first open air school room.

Mr. Rourke's plans call for a swimming pool in the rear of the building but Commissioner Marchand has not yet decided whether this will be constructed at once.

FIRE IN LAWRENCE STREET BAKERY

An alarm was sent in from box 216 at about 7:15 o'clock and when the firemen arrived on the scene they found that the blaze was making rapid progress. Several lines of hose were laid and after almost an hour's work the fire was extinguished. T. C. Lee & Co. carried the insurance on the building, which is owned by the Watson heirs, and on the contents of the bakery.

CHILD'S LIFE SAVED BY MOTORMAN

Peter U. Brassard, a former member of Battery F, was the hero of a life-saving stunt in Bridge street about 12:15 this afternoon when his quick work as motorman of an inbound Dracut Centre car undoubtedly saved the life of an unknown four or five-year-old child who ran in front of the car while it was going at a considerable rate of speed.

The near-accident occurred at Bridge and Thirteenth streets. An outbound Dracut Centre car had just passed when the youngster in crossing Bridge street ran behind the outgoing car and directly in front of that coming toward the Dracut Centre square. He managed to get just beyond the fender of the car but was knocked down by the forward step. In another second he would probably have been pushed in front of the wheels, but Motorman Brassard applied the brakes at once and the youngster got up and ran off uninjured. Mr. Brassard was congratulated by the passengers for his speedy work.

GREEK COMMUNITY HAS ANNUAL ELECTION

The annual election of officers for the local Greek community was held yesterday in the basement of the Greek Orthodox church in Jefferson street. The polls opened at 7 o'clock yesterday morning and were closed at 7 o'clock in the evening, but before all the ballots had been cast some of the candidates protested on the manner in which the voting was being carried, and as a result it is believed the matter will be thrashed out in court.

There were five candidates for the position of president, Christos Ziongos, Peter Tsafaras, Bill Jivis, Nicholas Trafas and Aristomenes Malakouritis. Each of these candidates were represented on the board of election officers by three representatives. It is claimed that in the course of the afternoon it was discovered that Greek residents of Nashua, Manchester, Lawrence and other cities were being taken to the polls in automobiles and made to vote. On names of deceased members of the community or on names of men who have gone abroad, or again who are in the service. As a result of the alleged discovery a protest was entered by some of the candidates and it is claimed that a vote of 12 to 3 was taken in favor of postponing the election until July 4. Nevertheless, so it is alleged, the election was carried on just the same and today the votes are being counted. It was learned this morning that some of the candidates for president will ask the court for an injunction in an endeavor to declare the election illegal.

Hawker Explains His Statement Belittling Yanks

LONDON, May 31.—Harry G. Hawker in an interview in the Evening Globe, regarding American press comments on the speech he made at a luncheon to newspaper men Wednesday, said:

"The Americans misunderstood my point. I was not criticizing their attempt. It is impossible to compare the two fights. We did not wish to have battleships supplied by the government along the route."

"My remarks were intended for those who were criticizing the government for not supplying them. I wish the Americans the very best of luck. Their flights have been beautifully organized jobs from beginning to end."

"I am very sorry indeed that the American press has misunderstood me. Nothing was farther from my mind than to criticize the Americans."

LONDON, May 31.—Harry G. Hawker in an interview in the Evening Globe, regarding American press comments on the speech he made at a luncheon to newspaper men Wednesday, said:

"The Americans misunderstood my point. I was not criticizing their attempt. It is impossible to compare the two fights. We did not wish to have battleships supplied by the government along the route."

"My remarks were intended for those who were criticizing the government for not supplying them. I wish the Americans the very best of luck. Their flights have been beautifully organized jobs from beginning to end."

"I am very sorry indeed that the American press has misunderstood me. Nothing was farther from my mind than to criticize the Americans."

Ninth Inning Rally Wins Morning Game Against
Fitchburg, 6 to 5

Lowell's good looking ball club got a 50-50 break in yesterday's holiday games with Fitchburg, winning at Spaulding park in the morning, 6 to 5, and dropping a hard fought game at Fitchburg in the afternoon, 5 to 4. About 1500 people saw the forenoon contest and more than 3000 cheering fans were out in Fitchburg at the matinee performance.

A little tired from their run-fest in Lawrence the day before, Mike Hayden's team looked beaten yesterday morning for eight innings, but came through with a vigorous batting rally in the ninth and capped the game right out of Fitchburg's bat bags. It was the second ninth inning finish of the week and showed that the local club is in the fighting until the last man goes out.

O'Connor, a newcomer, played left field and did a good job, making easy dazzling catch of a low liner off Loftus' bat in the fifth. Gaudette pitched against Wesley and the Lowell youngster was the stronger with men on bases, although the visiting threatener to weather the impending storm which, however, broke with too much fury in the ninth.

BOYLE KNOCKED OUT BY YOUNG KLOBY

The much advertised bout between Finney Boyle of Lowell and Young Kloby of Lawrence, claimant of the Yankee Division championship, at the Unity club in Lawrence last night lasted hardly a minute, Boyle being sent to slumberland by two hard blows to the jaw. It was Kloby's first fight since returning from France and he made quick work of the erratic Spindell City lad. In the semi-final Eddie Barrelli of Quincy and Buddy Dolan of Lawrence fought a fast draw.

Ruth Tries To Win in Afternoon, But Fails
One Run Short

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Philadelphia hit the ball harder than the Red Sox but not at opportune times and Boston won the morning game, 10 to 6. In the fifth and sixth innings Boston got to glory for three hits and three runs in each inning. McNally replaced Viti when he strained his leg running out a double.

In the afternoon game with Philadelphia after Dumont passed two outmen in the tenth inning, James was sent to the rescue of Boston. Ruth batted to James, who tried to hurry the ball to third and in falling to do this he hit the bases and then struck George Burns on the elbow with the ball and the pitcher was out. Without a man out in the tenth, Ruth knocked in all three of Boston's runs. The scores:

INDIANS DROP TWO

CHICAGO, May 31.—Chicago defeated Cleveland, 1 to 1, yesterday, by hitting poorly freely.

The White Sox also defeated Cleveland, 3 to 2, in the afternoon game, before the largest crowd of the season, giving the visitors their second defeat of the day. The locals bunched hits off Uhl in the afternoon and took third, but the visitors played an uphill battle, tied the score in the ninth with the aid of Eddie Collins' error and Speaker's daring base running. Collins relieved himself by striking the White Sox rally in the ninth and scored the deciding run. The scores:

GEN. ATTERBURY HOME

Directed A.E.F. Transportation Service—Locomotives

Arrived Ready For Work

NEW YORK, May 31.—Brig. Gen. W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Penna. railroad, who served as director-general of transportation of the A. E. F. in France, today described the achievements of the American transportation service abroad. He arrived on the steamship Rotterdam from Brest.

One of the greatest achievements, he declared, was the carrying to France of locomotives complete and ready to place on the tracks.

Homers Folks, who for two years directed civilian relief work in France, and more recently investigated after-the-war conditions in France, Belgium, Italy, Greece and Serbia, returned on the Carmania. In Serbia, he received the decoration of commander of the order of the White Eagle.

As director of civilian relief in France, he organized a staff of 1100 workers and expended as high as $1,760,000 a month providing food, clothing and shelter for refugees and residents of devastated sections. He is secretary of the New York State Charities Aid Association.

Memorial Day Parade

bert Bergeron; Co. G, Capt. Royal P. White and Co. C, Lieut. Loring R. Kew.

With nine service men in line, the United States Cartridge Co. band swung through the streets under the leadership of John J. Regan, himself a world war man.

Following this band came the middle-aged veterans, General Adelbert Ames Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, a goodly number of them in their attractive uniforms led by Commander William Prescott. He was assisted by Richard Gibbons, senior vice commander; Patrick Byrne, junior vice commander and Chaplain A. D. Mitchell. Veterans who were unable to march followed behind in carriages and riding were also Rev. James Bancroft, pastor of St. John's church and Arthur Salmon of the Sons of Veterans.

World War Veterans

The next feature of the parade had been eagerly anticipated by the waiting thousands, the veterans of the recent war. G. H. Bird, chief boat-swarmer of the U.S.S. M. Vernon and Chief Steward Michael F. O'Brien of the merchant marine commanded 12 sailors from various ships. They presented a natty appearance and were generously applauded all along the line of march.

With jaunty overseas caps and the swinging stride that intensive training had given them, 150 soldiers of the world war next came to view commanded by Col. Charles A. Stevens and Lieut. Schuyler Waller. Various divisions were represented by the fighters, showing the omnipresence of Lowell men in the war that has just closed. A number of officers, all well known to those along the sidewalks, were at the head of the line. The veterans marched through lanes of continuous cheering.

The G.A.R. Veterans

The Sons of Veterans escorted the Civil war men. Preceding them was the Lowell Military band and John Barker commanded the Sons of Veterans. The three posts of the G.A.R. turned out slightly over 50 men by their combined strength. Junior Vice Commander N. G. Lamson led Post 42 in the absence of Chief Marshal Page. Senior Vice Commander N. B. Lamond commanded Post 120 and Commander Franklin S. Pevey was at the head of Post 185. A number of carriages followed with incapacitated veterans as well as several machines.

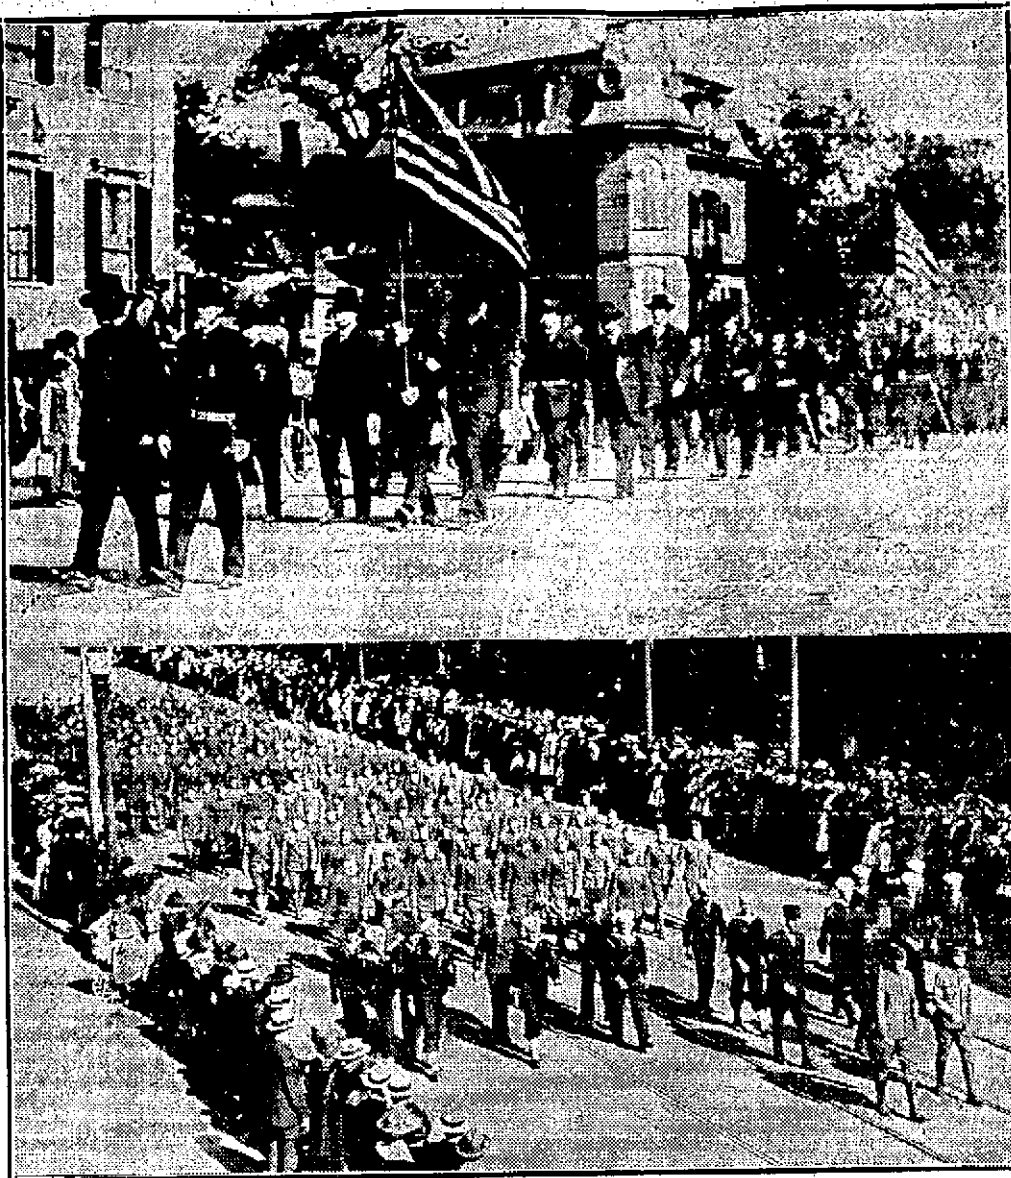

After the veterans came a number of semi-military and civilian organizations. Manchester Unity Odd Fellows turned out a goodly number of its uniformed rank, commanded by Brig. Gen. Willis H. Bowles. Closely following was Garde St. Louis, the Wolf Tone Guards, commanded by Capt. Frank J. Kiere, four of whose service men escorted the flag; the French Guards, led by Major Edmond Rocheleau and their company commanders. The Irish Volunteer drum corps furnished music for these organizations.

Uniformed Young Women

Men were not the only ones in uniform, for next in line was a representation of Girl Scouts, clad in khaki uniforms and walking with true military and athletic air. There were four troops in all commanded by Maude E. Davis, Alice Jenkins, Grace Stokham and Lila Darracott, respectively.

A pretty showing was that made by the 35 young women from the Community Service club clad in white and wearing blue caps. Rose Heath commanded.

Col. Curtis N. Rice, Jr., commanded the high school regiment, which was preceded by its own drum corps in command of Daniel Martin. The various battalions were led by their majors. The Boy Scouts made a splendid showing with no less than 14 troops in line. Scout Executive R. I. Ripley commanded and was assisted by Deputy Scout Commissioner C. E. Coburn and Assistant Deputy E. A. Thurston. Carriages bearing Mayor Thompson and members of the city council, Mrs. Mary E. Smith, a Civil war nurse, Rev. James T. McDermott, O.M.I. of the Sacred Heart church; Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the Gorham Street Methodist church; F. E. Butler of Post 120; Capt. W. P. White, U.S.N., (retired), representing the Sons of Veterans; Private John O'Keefe, who lost an arm while serving with the engineers overseas, and Col. Albert Pinder of Post 42, were at the rear of the line.

At Monument Square

It was shortly before 5 o'clock when the marchers reached Monument square preparatory to the usual ceremonies. The veterans of the three wars with the Sons of Veterans formed a triangle about the monuments and after the Lowell Military band had played a solemn dirge and hats had been removed, Rev. James T. McDermott, O.M.I., offered the following prayer for the men who had given up their lives in the various wars:

"Almighty and Eternal God, our Father, look down with favor upon this vast assembly. Grateful for the blessings of life and liberty, of peace and prosperity, and mindful of those by whose sufferings, wounds, and death, under Thy benign providence, these gifts have been secured, a suppliant people kneels before Thy throne pleading for mercy upon the souls of their brethren who loved their country more dearly than they loved their lives. Thou hast said, O Lord: 'Greater love than this no man hath that a man lay down his life for his friends.'"

"Thou, O God, are the Creator and Redeemer of the faithful and our hope 'exceeding great.' Thy words never fail to console us in this vale of tears; to pray for the dead, that they may be honored from their sins; Thy supplicate Thee, therefore, to be merciful to the souls of Thy servants departed. To all those who served and suffered that justice might prevail and that this great nation might endure, and whose hallowed bones lie under sea or sod, grant, O Lord, eternal peace. Remember not, O God, their frailties, but wash their offences in the Blood of the Lamb."

"While we pray for these, our martyred heroes, grant us grace, O Lord, to live, as they died, to perpetuate Thy standards of truth, justice and liberty; that walking always in Thy fear and in the way of Thy commandments we may after our departure from this world experience a merciful judgment and rejoice in everlasting happiness."

"Almighty and most merciful Father, who knowest the weakness of our nature, bow down Thine ear in pity unto Thy servants, upon whom Thou hast laid the heavy burden of sorrow. Teach them to see Thy good and gracious purpose working in all the trials which Thou dost send upon them. Grant that they may not languish in fruitless and unavailing grief, nor sorrow as those who have no hope, but through their tears look meekly up to Thee, the God of all consolation."

"To our beloved dead grant eternal rest, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them. May they rest in peace. Amen. And may the blessing of God, the Father, who created us; of God the Son, who redeemed us; and of God the Holy Ghost who sanctified us, descend upon us and remain with us forever and ever. Amen."

The firing squad from the Sons of Veterans fired three volleys, a bugler blew "taps" and then the line reformed to proceed through Moody to Cabot, down Merrimack where it was reviewed at city hall by city officials and was dismissed at Dutton and Merrimack streets at 5:30.

Following the parade Chief Marshal Page extended his appreciation to all who had helped to make the parade a success either by participation or otherwise.

At St. Patrick's Cemetery
Members of the various local Irish societies decorated the graves of their departed members yesterday morning at St. Patrick's cemetery and carried out the usual Memorial day exercises. Shortly after 9:30 members of the Wolfe Tone Guards, Meagher Guards, Sheridan Guards, Irish National Brotherhood and Hibernians left A.O.J. hall and marched to the cemetery, headed by the Irish Volunteer Drum Corps. There were more than 500 people present at the exercises at the cemetery.

PATRIOTIC SONS AID HONORS TO THE DEAD

As in previous years, the graves of members of the G.A.R. in local cemeteries as well as in some of the suburban burying grounds, were decorated by surviving members of the three G.A.R. posts yesterday morning, the program as usual being under the auspices of the Sons of Veterans.

Through the courtesy of the Sons of Veterans, the old warriors did not walk to the cemeteries, but automobiles were provided for them with the result that special exercises were carried out in all the cemeteries in less than two hours' time. The automobile procession consisting of 23 cars, headed by Chief Marshal Lucius A. Derby of the Sons of Veterans, left Memorial hall at 8:30 a. m., Post 185 accompanied by a firing squad from the Sons of Veterans, going to the Lowell cemetery and later to the Tewksbury cemetery, while others went to the Edison cemetery, where the service was conducted by Commander Frank Flanders of Post 120.

At the close of the service, three automobiles went to Tyngsboro, where special services were conducted in the four cemeteries of the town, while one automobile went to St. Joseph's cemetery. This delegation was in charge of Senior Vice Commander Lamond of Post 120. Other delegations went to St. Patrick's cemetery, the Old English cemetery in Gorham street and the School Street cemetery. Each delegation was accompanied by a firing squad either from the Sons of Veterans or the State Guard. At the close of the exercises all the delegations returned to Post 120 hall, where a brief social gathering took place.

Spanish War Veterans

Special services in honor of dead members were held yesterday afternoon in St. Patrick's and Edison cemeteries by members of Gen. Adelbert Ames camp, S.W.V. Appropriate selections were rendered by the Mendelssohn quartet, and prayers were offered by Rev. James J. Kerrigan of St. Patrick's church in the Catholic cemetery and by Rev. James Bancroft of St. John's church in the Edison. Taps was sounded and a volley was fired by the firing squad of the camp in command of 2nd Lieut. Ralph Brackley. The members of the squad were Privates Murphy, Tobin, McBride, Deignan, Aldrich, Glancy, Pooler and Brown.

Sons of Veterans

The members of Admiral Farragut camp, 78, Sons of Veterans, conducted their annual memorial exercises in the Hildreth cemetery in Hildreth street yesterday afternoon. The address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Whitney of Centralville M.E. church and prayer was offered by Rev. N. W. Matthews of Gorham Street P.M. church. Three volleys were fired by the firing squad of the organization.

RED PILLS

The Best Friend of the Woman who Works.

THE woman who is forced to earn her living in the factory, is bound to feel the strain. The long hours on her feet; the monotonous grind of doing the same thing, day in and day out; the utter weariness of mind and body; will break down the strongest constitution if allowed to go on without help.

MANY a woman, who has started in the factory the very picture of health, has come out a physical wreck. Because she neglected Nature's warnings.

SHE would not heed the signs when she became pale and thin; when headaches began to bother her; when she could not eat and sleep; when she grew nervous; when the ordinary work tired her.

THESE are Nature's danger signals that Anemia is present—that the blood needs more food—that the health will be shattered unless a blood food like RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women is taken. They are the best friend of the woman who works.

RED PILLS conquer Anemia, because they feed the blood. They contain the vital substances needed to purify and enrich the blood—to overcome Anemia—to quiet the nerves, strengthen the muscles, restore the vitality, and really re-build the entire system.

EVERY woman who works needs RED PILLS to keep her in good health; or to restore her to health.

MRS. LEON HUDON, 65 Ford Street, Lowell, Mass., says: "I was forced to work very hard while still young, and when the day of my marriage approached I was in a very precarious state of health, as I was weakened through overwork and was suffering from internal pains which were making life very miserable for me. RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women soon gave me strength, and my pains gradually disappeared, with the result that now I enjoy good health and am no more troubled with the various ailments which used to upset me so."

CAUTION—The formula of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women was first discovered in Paris, in the year of 1870, by a famous French specialist. They have been used by French women ever since. Insist on the signature of the "CIE CHIMIQUE FRANCO-AMERICAINE", and a serial number on each box. RED PILLS are never sold in bulk; only in boxes, 50 cents, or 5 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or sent by mail on receipt of price, by the Franco-American Chemical Company Limited, 212 Milk Street, Boston, Mass. 14

LOWELL SHOE WORKERS ARE ORGANIZING

Claiming that Lowell's skilled and unskilled shoe workers are the poorest paid of their craft in New England, the Allied Shoe Workers' organization, with headquarters at Salem, have effected a preliminary organization here whose present membership is 100. The head of this union is Thomas Bouchard, of 200 Perkins street.

A mass meeting of skilled and unskilled workers to which women workers as well as the men are invited, will take place next Friday evening,

June 6, at Leather Workers' hall. This will be an educational meeting, to complete organization and formulate plans for increasing membership. This is as far as the work has been planned at this time. Recognition of the union, wage scale and other matters are for the present, held in abeyance.

Backing up his claim that Lowell shoe workers are the poorest paid of their craft in New England, Bouchard says the Lowell shoe cutters' pay will average only $23 a week, and with not a full year's work at that. He says as the result of union conditions obtained in the following cities, men doing the same work, shoe cutters, are paid as follows: Nashua, Manchester, Haverhill, Brockton, $35 per week. In Lynn the scale runs up as high as $42.50 a week. In Salem the pay is $36 a week for a 48 hour week. Lowell shoe cutters work a 50 hour week.

Applicants must be good musicians, and between the ages of 18 and 30. The pay ranges from $11 to $43, in addition to board, lodging and one complete uniform equipment.

The time was pleasantly passed with playing all kinds of games and music. Refreshments were served. Marguerite Barber, Vera Lynn and Amy Hope played piano selections. The fine, large birthday cake was decorated appropriately with little silk American flags.

Daily Health Talks

Where Most Sickness Begins and Ends

BY FRANKLIN DUANE, M.D.

It can be said broadly that most human ills begin in the stomach and end in the stomach. Good digestion means good health, and poor digestion means bad health. The minute your stomach fails to properly dispose of the food you eat, troubles begin to crop out in various forms. Indigestion and dyspepsia are the commonest forms, but thin, impure blood, headaches, backaches, pimples, blotches, dizziness, belching, coated tongue, weakness, poor appetite, sleeplessness, coughs, colds and bronchitis are almost as common. There is but one way to have good health, and that is to put and keep your stomach in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a wonderful tonic and blood purifier, and is so safe to take, for it is made of roots and herbs. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind this standard medicine, and it is good to know that so distinguished a physician is proud to have his name identified with it. When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the earth. Still more, you get a temporary medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that these remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines.

If pills are torturing you, get and use Pierce's Anodyne. Pills. Ointment. The quick relief it gives is hard to have until you try it. If constipated, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken while using Anodyne Pills. Ointment. Few indeed are the cases which these splendid remedies will not relieve and usually overcome. They are so good that nearly every drug store has them for sale.—Adv.

No Medicine-Chest Without Its Family Laxative

From the baby to the grandparents a good laxative is the necessary medicine in the little ills. It wards off serious sickness and saves doctor's bills. Many a cold has been prevented from running into grippe and pneumonia by its timely use.

Many a racking headache has been quickly dispelled by it. And it is a laxative rather than a drastic cathartic or purgative that should be in every family medicine-chest, for a laxative can be used at all ages.

Thousands of good American families have for more than a quarter century used a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a laxative-herb that acts on the bowels and stomach. Infants take it with perfect safety, and it is equally effective for grownups.

Grandparents are now seeing their children give it to their babies. It is excellent for all the family in constipation no matter how chronic, indigestion, wind colic, biliousness, headaches, dyspepsia and similar ills.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

PRICE AS ALWAYS
In spite of greatly increased laboratory costs due to the war, by securing profits and absorbing war taxes we have maintained the price at which this family laxative has been sold by druggists for the past 25 years. Two sizes—5c and $1.00.

A CONVENIENCE

When you pick up your evening newspaper and glance over the advertising you quite unconsciously multiply yourself a thousand times.

In half or three-quarters of an hour you can, metaphorically speaking, visit every progressive store in town. You virtually poke your head into every department of every department store. You run into the florist's, the confectioner's, the oculist's, the leading grocer's, banks, theatres, all the various places that supply the things that make this the twentieth century and life worth the living. Here is a greater choice in clothing, food, furniture, books, pictures, musical instruments, travel, entertainment, opportunities for investment, the service of public utility corporations than any monarch of old could command.

THE AUDITORIUM SITE

With commendable celerity, the Lowell Auditorium commission has selected a site for the building, usually a very difficult task in such cases. Fortunately, there was no public controversy over the selection as in the case of the high school and the postoffice; and yet it is doubtful if public discussion could have brought to light any site that has more to commend it than that chosen on East Merrimack Street.

The considerations that appealed most strongly to the commission in selecting this site in preference to any of the others offered as eligible, were its central location within a minute's walk from Merrimack square, the centre of the street car system, its convenient accessibility, its ample area and isolation from other property and finally, its comparatively moderate cost.

Owing to the fact that the site will be clear of all other property and bounded on one side by the Concord river, it offers great possibilities of development along aesthetic lines.

It is encouraging to know that the building is to be, as it should be, one of the most attractive in our city, and that it will not be crowded in with other property as was the old Huntington hall, a fact that on two occasions led to its destruction. There will be ample room around this building to provide all the exits necessary, with plenty of space for carriages or automobiles on all sides.

The location of the Auditorium on the East Merrimack street site will undoubtedly bring about an increase in the value of property on the opposite side of the street and for a considerable distance in the vicinity. Indeed, it is not too much to expect that in a very short time, as a result of the Auditorium being erected there, the increase in the value of real estate in the vicinity will fully compensate for the withdrawal of this property from the taxable assets of the city.

For some years past, much of the property on Howe and Davidson streets as well as on lower Fayette street, has been allowed to run down to a condition bordering on dilapidation. The district has suffered severely from the effects of the old tannery formerly located on Howe street, the odor of which, at certain seasons of the year, was almost sufficient to stifle the entire neighborhood. There will soon be an inducement to tear down all the old structures in that district and erect modern up-to-date buildings with a sufficient number of stores to accommodate the business necessities of the locality.

This, however, belongs to the future and the public will look now for the next step in the work, which will be the clearance of the site of all its buildings. That need not be started until the plans are completed, so that the occupants will have ample time to find other abodes.

The site has the advantage of being obtainable at a comparatively low price, so that sufficient funds will remain to construct a building of which the city may well feel proud, one that in every up-to-date feature should compare with any of its size in the entire country.

JEWISH POGROMS

The demonstration held in Boston on Wednesday evening, in protest against the Jewish pogroms in Poland, was one of very great importance. If conditions are as represented in Poland, prompt action is necessary to bring about a change. It is alleged that thousands of Jews were slaughtered by the Polish army without cause and chiefly through racial enmity. This is certainly disgraceful for the new Polish republic, and we are assured that Paderewski would never countenance any such outrage.

In the new order of things, this racial prejudice and religious intolerance must be stamped out. It is encouraging to know from President Wilson that in the constitution of the new states to be established, by the peace congress, provision will be made for religious freedom for all races and peoples. It is certainly time that some effective action were taken to put a stop to the persecution of the Jews in different parts of Europe. It would indeed be deplorable if any of the new states should attempt to carry out a policy of discrimination such as that which was so popular in Russia under the late czar.

The Boston protest should have its effect in causing the peace congress to take such action as will restrain the armies of the European states from such outbreaks of frenzy or intolerance as are reported from Poland, and some other states. It is unbelievable that any such atrocity has been authorized by the Polish or any other government on the continent outside Germany, Bulgaria or Turkey. After the conclusion of peace, we expect that a greater spirit of toleration will pervade the European countries and that in due time these nations will forget their jealousies and decide to treat one another with a fraternal spirit, such as is contemplated, if not made mandatory in the League of Nations.

That was an important conference on Americanization held in Boston Wednesday. Among other points brought to light was one showing that foreigners are not treated with strict justice in this country on account of the mode of procedure in our courts. The man who has money has the upper hand in the courts. In the federal courts, an appeal may be entered without prepayment; but not so in the others. Hence, the man who has not the money is at a disadvantage in the battle. It appears that there is need for reform in this respect and the so called Legal Aid society, if honestly directed, may accomplish that object.

Then it was also shown that immigrants are frequently the victims of exploitation by the unscrupulous, both in the matter of legal fees and in finding employment. All these drawbacks may be overcome by a knowledge of English that will enable the foreigners to talk freely with their American neighbors and those with whom they work in the factories.

In many cases, foreigners are victims of accidents due mainly to the fact that they do not understand the instructions given them in reference to dangerous machinery. Facilities unequalled in the past will be offered the foreigners who desire to learn English. The evening schools have not proved satisfactory and now the government is financing other methods to be conducted on a large scale under the federal state program.

It is gratifying to find this work of Americanization assuming systematic form and being pushed by men who have the enthusiasm necessary to success.

LET 'EM HOWL

The republicans some time ago raised a howl over a possible delay in the payment of past and current allotments due to the families of soldiers and sailors, because the bill providing for payment could not be promptly signed owing to the president's absence in Europe. The president met the situation by calling an order to regard the bill as law and carry out its provisions as if it had been signed, stating that he would sign it as soon as it reached him. Thus the republicans, while losing one cause of complaint, are offered another. They will now howl because the president orders the carrying out the provisions of a bill before they have actually become law. Thus it appears that the opposition to Wilson will howl anyhow, and apparently the president realizes the fact and is satisfied to let them howl on.

HAWKER HALO FADES

Hawker, the aviator, greatly lowered himself in the estimation of his American admirers when he sneered at the American flight across the Atlantic and stated that it was the American success that forced him to start. Then Hawker's only aim was to beat the Americans, but he failed and it is with ill grace that a man who failed in the attempt belittles those who beat him in the race. Hawker's halo has faded.

King Albert is to visit Washington next October. Washington will hold nothing too good for the king. We will want to make him feel that the next best thing to being an American is to be king of the Belgians.

So Ruth Law is going to try the transatlantic flight. Well, we expected "Along would come Ruth" very soon. And it may be rather of a good bet the lady's wings take her over safely.

Year by year, the graves of the brave to be decorated increase.

A ball score of 23 to 10, and fights and wrestling matches that fell to materialize as advertised smell very strongly of the canning industry.

Couldn't Fool Him

"The 'orn of the 'unter is 'eard on the 'ill," said the little boy at the Ragged School treat. But somehow his version of that line in "Kathleen Mavourneen" jarred on the nerves of the old squire.

"My little man," he said kindly, "why don't you put a few more alliterics in your song?"

"Garn," advised the little man, politely. "Don't you know there ain't no 'R in moose? It only goes up to G!"—London Ideas.

Truth for Peace Work

Gen. H. P. McCall said in a review of the foreign legion at Camp Devens, Massachusetts:

"Training for war is hard and tedious work, but our men have always submitted to it with a good grace. I saw the other day a letter from a young college student in training. He wrote to his mother, a society leader in Boston:

"Dear Mother—I have put in a whole month now washing dishes, making beds, peeling potatoes and sweeping floors. I tell you what it is, mother, when I get back home from this war I'll make some girl a darn fine wife."—Rehabilitated Sunday Herald.

Fong New Mix Number

Lee Fong was brought before the local justice and fined for breaking the law. The judge had great difficulty in making the Oriental understand, as he feigned entire ignorance of English. Finally, in desperation, the judge said:

"Here man, do you see? That is one dollar. Pay it—or you go to jail." The Chinik still appeared to be unlightened and the magistrate repeated the question.

"Allow me to talk to him, your honor," burst forth the husky cop who had arrested him. "I'll make him understand."

The officer approached the prisoner and shouted in his ear: "Say, you with the teakettle face, can't you hear anything? You've got to pay a fine of two dollars."

"You're a liar!" shouted back the Chinik. "It's only one dollar!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Danish Mary

"Twas Danish Mary picked them up Out of all an' of all the same: A shoddy, trudging lollypop, A trapezing slatternly."

The cry rang north, the cry rang south: "The vanished—where are they?" But Danish Mary shut her mouth And shuffled on her way.

"Ho, Hawker!—Grieve!" on flying said Called kingdoms and called kings: But Danish Mary chewed her cud In drowsy manderings.

Now "Lost!" cried West, and "Lost!" cried East. Till "Perished!" like a pall. Turned bonfire-light and homing feast More dark than funeral.

And toward the hollow sky rose prayer And a thrice of sleepy-sighs: But what should Danish Mary care? She takes her own sweet time.

And bawls to Lewis Butt: "He's me! I've picked 'em up—your men." "What!—Grieve and Hawker?" "Sure!" And she Goes shambling on again.

But lightning engines flash and light For news that rears renown, The juddies swarm from bay and height And race to run her down.

And who, and tear her prize away— While Mary turns to prowl! Once more where elms the lumb, salt spray And slaps her on the jaw! By Percy Mackaye in New York Tribune.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

It isn't often one meets an interesting soldier lad as Sergt. "Bill" Wood, lately returned from more than 11 months' service overseas where he saw as much action in the fighting game as any of the gallant "Yanks." Sergt. Wood makes a fine, striking-looking soldier, for in the days before the war he was an exponent of physical culture, a speedy runner, a jumper and a disciple of Isaac Walton and since he has come home, they tell me, an ardent golfer who can give Clerk Flaherty of the license commission a run for his money. Harry, you know, has been rounding into shape as an expert golfer a la Francis Ouimet. "Bill" Wood can regale you with many interesting stories of his adventures as a member of the 75th Division. He was in the thick of the fight in the fastness of the Argonne in September, went over the top several times and faced the deadly machine gun fire of the Huns, coming out unscathed.

If ever there was an open car day it was last Thursday and many a man or maid would willingly have dropped a dime fare into the coffers of Bill State for a refreshing whirl into the countryside. Was "Bill" awake to his opportunities which were knocking at his door with a 55 millimetre bang? Nay, not so, not in this good community. At any rate, William was pitifully somnolent. Evidently he and the weather man had no telegraphic relations. Very rare were the open cars on that day when the mercury had become heatedly ambitious. Once in a while the good young ladies who were about to take part in the high school field day exercises at Spaulding park had the pleasure of an open car but the majority of them had to tolerate closely packed closed cars. Perhaps it was a little early in the season for the open "boats," but one would think that the Bay State would be ready for emergencies. Better luck next time, perhaps. Everybody hopes so.

It was my good fortune yesterday to see what represents the abortive attempt to remedy the housing problem for industrial cities as carried out in Lowell by the Massachusetts Homestead commission over in Centralville in the place of Hildreth street. Here was an idea that started to the right but the failure was so glaring that it finally became ridiculous. I have been intending ever since last summer to see the alleged model houses. I don't see what in the world the architect had in mind when he planned these homes, in regard to their size and convenience, unless he believed they were to be occupied by newlyweds on their honeymoon and for a not much longer time. Certainly they offer no accommodations adequate for the average Lowell family.

You have oftentimes heard of the fantasy of going along a street and lifting off the roof of every man's home and seeing how he and his family are occupied. Of course it can't be done, but in connection with these Homestead homes it is very nearly attained for when the visitor comes into the front door I notice that he finds himself right up plump and face to face with the kitchen sink, set tubs and all the busy activities connected with the housewife's work in the kitchen. There are about five of the tenements vacant at the present time. I was surprised that even with the cramped accommodation they offer, they had not long ago been snapped up. A neighbor tells me that the Homestead commission has arbitrarily made a ruling that will not let any of the vacant tenements and the only way you will get a chance to further appreciate the bone-headedness of the man who designed these houses, is to take them off the hands of the Homestead commission by buying them. Well unless conditions get much worse than most of us expect, we predict it will be quite some time before the Homestead gets a chance to feed these shacks to some hard pressed family man, and especially at the prices I understand the commission is holding them, at the present time. The houses must be renovated and enlarged before they can be sold at anything like what they cost.

POST 185 G.A.R. VETS GUESTS AT SUPPER

Admiral Farragut Camp, Sons of Veterans, the Daughters of Veterans and the Sons of Veterans' auxiliary were hosts at supper last evening to members of Post 185, G.A.R., at the vestry of the First Universalist church, Hurd street.

The toastmaster was Commander John G. Parker, of the Sons of Veterans. Immediately at the close of the big parade, the band and Sons of Veterans as escort, marched to the church where a bountiful and typically Grand Army supper was served. Two special guests of the occasion were Rev. N. W. Matthews and Rev. C. B. Fisher, D. D., pastor of the church where the supper was held.

The divine blessing was invoked by Rev. Mr. Matthews. Mr. Michael Brennan sang a group of songs in a fine voice. Dr. Fisher, in making a short address said,—"Sometimes there is a tendency on the part of some of our people to call this day we now honor, 'Decoration day.' Most of the Grand Army men and persons interested in general, object to its being called by this name and there is probably good grounds for their objection. It rather seems as if the name, 'Memorial day' illustrated what the day really means better than any other expression."

"It has been well said by a certain great man of our country that the name American stands for an ideal of American life and that the man who will question this ideal can have no place in our life and should not feel he is welcome among us."

Rev. N. W. Matthews made a short address in which he spoke of having ridden during the afternoon with a veteran of the early American navy, Comrade Russell, now over 90 years of age who was one of the brave seamen on the Kearazgo when she sank the Alabama. He said that Memorial day and its significance was an idea that he believed would spread all over the civilized world and that even yesterday Memorial day exercises were taking place in the city of London to honor American dead in all her great wars.

James O'Sullivan, an honorary member of Post 185, was presented and made a stirring patriotic speech. He said that he stood for the slogan of "America first" and all that it stood for and, that to his mind, the great thing in connection with the peace conference now on was for Americans to see to it that at the conclusion of the peace negotiations America was the same kind of a country it was in 1914.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson was present and introduced as a long tried friend of Grand Army men. He made a speech in which he alluded to the matter of Memorial hall as a meeting place for the veterans and said he believed before another Memorial day the city would have fulfilled its duty of providing a place of meeting for the veterans at which they would not have to climb stairs as they have so often and with justice, complained of, in connection with Memorial hall.

Nearly 300 persons attended the supper. The service flag of the Sons of Veterans camp with its 16 stars, including two gold stars, was given a place of honor on the platform and a place of honor in the attitude of silent prayer as a mark of respect to the memory of the men the two gold stars represented, G. Ralph Cressey and E. D. Pickering. The ladies of the Grand Army veterans were also guests of the organizations providing the supper. The closing exercises included some stereoscopic pictures of the great war shown by L. A. Derby and the singing of the national anthem.

BLEW TAPS AT GRAVE OF GEN. BUTLER

An unprogrammed incident of Memorial day that was nevertheless one of the most impressive, pathetic and picturesque things that took place in a Memorial day of unusual solemnity happened at Hildreth cemetery, Centralville, yesterday afternoon, at about the time the members of Admiral Farragut camp, No. 78, Sons of Veterans, were preparing to march back to the center of the city after having decorated the graves of dead patriots.

A taxicab drew up in Hildreth street in front of the cemetery and out of it stepped Brig.-Gen. Philip Reid, U.S.A., retired, and Trooper Haynes, U.S.A., retired. Gen. Reid, who is now making his home at West Point, N. Y., said he came to Lowell to pay a last tribute to his friend and benefactor, Gen. B. F. Butler.

Upon hearing this Commander Parker ordered the Sons of Veterans to stand at attention and then gave an order for the firing detail to accompany Gen. Reid back into the cemetery. Arrived at the grave of General Butler, Gen. Reid unwrapped a well preserved copper army bugle and blew "taps," and his notes from the old Civil war bugle rang clear, sweet and distinct. The firing detail then fired a volley over Gen. Butler's last resting place.

After this had taken place, General Reid made a very short address in which he said that as a boy here in Lowell Gen. Butler had taken a very great interest in him. He told Gen. Butler got him interested in learning how to shoot a rifle and taught him something about playing the bugle. Afterwards Gen. Butler assisted him when he determined to take the examination for West Point. He said that the old soldier with him, Trooper Haynes, had served as his faithful orderly while both were fighting Indians in the campaign of 1878, and that both he and the trooper had fought in the Civil war. Growing old and more or less feeble, he said he had determined to come to Lowell this Memorial day and pay his last respects to his beloved friend in the way that one soldier would wish to be honored by another—by the blowing of the soldier's last call—"taps."

The Sons of Veterans all shook hands with the general and Trooper Haynes, and they were taken to the station and started on the way back to New York state in a motor car, with one or two Sons of Veterans accompanying them, as honor guests of the city and of Lowell's G.A.R. and the Sons of Veterans' camp.

PARIS, May 31.—President Woodrow Wilson, in an address yesterday at the graves of the American dead, in Suresnes cemetery, near Paris, said the League of Nations was the covenant of governments that the millions who fell in the great war shall not have died in vain and added that he looked for the time when every man who now opposes the league would be just as much ashamed of it as if he now regretted the union of the United States after the Civil war.

Declaring that the standards of an older order are trying to assert themselves again, the president said that those who sought to accomplish the return to "an order of which we are ashamed" must realize that they cannot succeed because "the peoples of the world are in the saddle" and "private councils of statesmen cannot now

Spoke to Great Throng

President Wilson yesterday made his first reference to the League of Nations since the covenant of the society which will have as its object the prevention of future wars was completed.

His words were delivered in the presence of thousands of American soldiers and many civilians, and the official representatives of the French government, distinguished members of allied officialdom who had come to pay tribute to the American dead, also heard the president's words.

Touching upon the reasons which had brought the American troops across seas, the president said they had come to defeat the things for which the central powers stood—"the arrogant, selfish domination which they intended to establish; and they came, moreover, to see to it that there never should be a war like this again."

"It is for us, particularly for us who are civilized," the president continued, "to use our proper weapons of counsel and agreement, see to it that there never is such a war again. The nation that should now fling out of this common council of counsel would betray the human race."

"So it is our duty to take and maintain the safeguards which will see to it that the mothers of America and the mothers of France and England and Italy and Belgium and all other suffering nations should never be called upon for this sacrifice again. This can be done. It must be done. And it will be done."

The president declared that the day of secret councils was past, because the people were in the saddle. The

These men who lie here are men of a unique breed. Their like has not been seen since the far days of Crusades.

The beauty of this war is that it has brought a new partnership and a new comradeship and a new understanding into the field of effort of the Nations.

It is for us, particularly for us who are civilized, to use our proper weapons of counsel and agreement to see to it that there never is such a war again. The Nation that should now fling out of this common council of counsel would betray the human race.

The League of Nations is the covenant of agreement that these men shall not have died in vain.

You are aware, as I am aware, that the standards of an older order are trying to assert themselves again. There is here and there an attempt to insert into the council of the statesmen the old reckoning of selfishness and bargaining and National advantage which were the roots of this war, and any man who counsels these things advocates a renewal of the sacrifice which these men have made. Let these gentlemen realize they cannot accomplish it. The peoples of the world are awake and the peoples of the world are in the saddle.

Private councils of statesmen cannot now and cannot hereafter determine the destinies of Nations. If we are not the servants of the opinion of mankind, we are of all men the littlest, most contemptible, the least gifted with vision.

So many things have happened, and they have happened so fast in the last four years, that I do not think many of us realize what it is that has happened. I was told before I came to France that there would be confusion of counsel about this thing and I found about it. I was told that there would be opposition and I found union of action. I found the statesmen united in the idea that we must conceive some common organization by which we should give our common faith that this peace would be maintained. We have listened to the challenge and that is the proof that there shall never be a war like this again.

I sent these ladies over here to die. Shall I—shall I ever speak a word of counsel which is inconsistent with the assurances I gave them when they came over? It is inconceivable!

Barheaded, in the glare of the sun, President Wilson spoke for more than half an hour, most of the time in an impassioned defence of the League of Nations and in appeal for its support.

An Impressive Scene

The cemetery is situated on the hillside of the ancient fortress of Mt. Valerien. With the old buildings at his back, the president looked over the graves of the American soldiers and down into the city of Paris, which stood in the distance like a panorama. The approaches to the cemetery and the paths winding their way through the burial ground were lined with soldiers standing at attention, American on one side and French on the other, as the president arrived.

The greater part of the khaki-clad listeners to the president's speech were grouped in the shade of the old fort, but a crowd of other soldiers and civilians pressed close to the speaker's stand. There was unwavering attention by all to the president's utterances, and when he concluded his auditors warmly applauded him. Captain Andre Tardieu, the French high commissioner who was

I was there to make a sketch of children's hour like a feast. For the her. Luncheon was just over, and she was talking to a little knot of women. The first words I heard, and I slid quietly into a near-by Cracker or Lunch Bis. "National Biscuit," recalling pleasant occasions to Old Time Sugar Cook. I liked her, and settled down for a while. I liked her, and settled down for a while. I liked her, and settled down for a while.

"Between the dark and daylight," she was quoting, "there's always a bit of pause when all the happy, seems waiting and then the children. Since every day—for things, I've seen them must feed babies. Then, I would like to see them to the hour. It seems heavy enough, but always dainty. During the most tractable after they've had something to eat. in the stand with President Wilson, listened attentively to the speech.

During his address the president never faltered in his diction. Earnestness marked his word. From a near-by point Mrs. Wilson listened to her husband. She and the president drove to the cemetery in different automobiles, and Mrs. Wilson remained in her car instead of going upon the speakers' stand.

Before President Wilson began his speech a message to the president from Premier Clemenceau dealing with the fellowship between the French and Americans was read.

With the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "The Marseillaise" by the band and the sounding of "taps" by the bagler, the official program ended, but President Wilson afterwards personally deposited a wreath in honor of the American dead in the names of the Boy Scouts of America.

During the ceremony a reminder of the war floated at anchor near-by—one of the observation balloons which used to do sentry duty on the various fronts.

Thirty Lowell young women journeyed to Camp Devens Thursday evening and staged a show and dancing party for the boys from "over there" and as on many Thursday evenings during the past months proved themselves a sure enough cure for any case of the "blues" which existed among the boys who fought and won and who are marking time at the cantonment until they hear that most welcome of all orders—"Homeward bound."

The event was given at the Jewish Welfare hut under the auspices of the Lowell Jewish Welfare board, the party being championed as on former occasions by Mrs. Louis Carr.

It was somewhat warm in the hut Thursday evening, but the boys didn't seem to care. The girls from Lowell didn't seem to care, either. And they sang and danced their way into the hearts of the lonesome men who had followed Old Glory through luck and thin, and all the time the men called for just a little more; and when their khaki-clad audience finally allowed them to take a brief respite while the floor was cleared for dancing it is a safe bet that their entire repertoire was exhausted.

Following the show, which consisted of a series of vocal and musical selections by some of the city's proficient amateur talent, aided and abetted by several young folks from Lawrence who had volunteered to add their bit of entertainment to the program mapped out by the local party, impromptu dancing was in order.

The first number on the entertainment program consisted of piano selections by Miss V. Carrity, and the way she made that piano talk won the hearty and enthusiastic approval of her audience. Miss Carrity also provided the accompaniment to the songs of the other members of the party.

And next came Miss Alice Dion. If you have had the pleasure of hearing this young woman sing then you know what that simple statement really means. Miss Dion can sing, we'll say. Yes, sir. Her first number was "Mammy O' Mine," and she followed this with "I Want a Doll." She tried to get away then, but the boys couldn't see it for a moment, and she sang "Rolie Polie Olie."

But when she sang that song of all songs, "Till We Meet Again"—oh, boy! That the roof stayed on was a miracle. The way the local baseball fans give the home team three times three when the winning run is scored paled into absolute insignificance beside the volume of sound with which the boys showed their approval of this wonderful song and the singer. And so Miss Dion sang it again and the boys sang with her, and then she escaped.

"Minnie at the Movies" was the title of the recitation which followed Miss Dion's efforts, and which was given by Miss Mary Cohen. Perhaps you've never heard this truly classic recital of "Minnie's" experience the while she and her chum watched the exploits of the screen stars. If so you've missed a treat. At least, the boys said so. And little Miss Cohen brought down the house and then some when she had finished.

Miss C. Royle was the next Lowell artist to appear, and gave her own original conception of the terpsichorean art. Miss Royle knows all the old steps and a lot of the new ones, and made one of the hits of the evening.

Miss L. O'Neill in songs came next, and this young woman went way over the top. "He's Had No Lovin' for a

Mrs. Rose Bichwit favored with piano selections.

Interspersed with the offerings of the Lowell girls were several pleasing numbers given by the Lawrence folks, which were all well received by their doughboy audience. But that the major or share of the applause went the way of the girls from the City of Spindles no one who witnessed the performance can deny.

During the afternoon the hospital committee of the Jewish Welfare board of this city, under whose auspices the weekly entertainments are being given, paid a visit to the wounded heroes at the base hospital and distributed fruit, candy, smokes, and smiles to the boys who fought and won. Miss Madeline Boland of the Owl theatre staff was one of the party and sang several songs in the different wards with Mrs. McFarland accompanying on the piano.

WOMEN WORKERS

In almost every line of war activities the women of this country have done well—and have taken front rank for doing work that released thousands of men for service overseas. Some women have been over-ambitious, and, at the expense of their health, have filled places once occupied by men. Every woman who, because of overwork, has brought on some ailment peculiar to her sex, should depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore her health and strength, as this remedy is now recognized as the standard and has restored multitudes.—Adv.

KILLING OF ZAPATA ENDS THE WORLD'S GREATEST MAN-HUNTHow Mexican "Attila" Was Bagged by Soldier—Actor of Iron Nerve—Details of Final Chapter in Terrorist's Career

BY JACK NEVILLE

(N. E. A. Staff Correspondent)

The killing of Zapata, Mexico's "Attila," concludes the most dramatic man-hunt of a century.

In its final chapters, details of which are here for the first time told outside of Mexico, it exceeds any fiction thriller ever written.

For ten years the bandit chief who outdid Villa as a terrorist, whose barbarities made millions of cruises, and upon whose success, ignorant hordes waited to launch a reign of frightfulness such as the modern world has not seen—for 10 years Zapata defied picked government troops, eluded scores of well-laid traps and spat lead into the face of his baffled pursuers.

It was Zapata's confidence in the uncouth and his own premium on treachery which finally, through his death at the hands of the actor-soldier Guajardo, a man of iron nerve and subtle wit.

To begin with, in 1898, Emiliano Zapata, a poor boy on the Ixmiquilpan, de la Torre hacienda in Morelos led a revolt against Porfirio Diaz. When Francisco Madero became president he pledged his services to Madero. Within a few days, however, he had again revolted, careening through the states of Morelos, Guerrero, Puebla, Mexico and Michoacan on a rampage of violence and indiscriminate slaughter.

Zapata successfully fought Diaz, Madero, Huerta, Carranza. Twice he captured the Mexican capital. Then Gen. Pablo Gonzalez reduced the bandit's army from 30,000 to 800. His Indians surrendered and returned to work under Gonzalez' campaign of kindness, amnesty and reform.

Threat for Revenge

One of the last of Zapata's famous generals to surrender was Victoriano Barcenas. The loss of his communistic empire was nothing to Zapata compared with his chagrin over the surrender of Barcenas. In his mountain hiding place he brooded ed over the affair and swore revenge. Then came his chance. In Cuautla, the headquarters of Gen. Gonzalez, Zapata maintained a flawless espionage system. Word came to him of a heated tilt between Gonzalez and Colonel Jesus M. Guajardo, commander of the 50th regiment. That afternoon a letter was on route to Guajardo urging him to desert and join Zapata.

The letter fell into the hands of Gonzalez. He sent for the colonel and watched him read it.

"Answer as I dictate," ordered the general. Guajardo wrote Zapata of personal grievances against the government and concluding with accepting his invitation to rebel against Gonzalez.

Zapata replied: "At last you have been made to see the way to serve your country."

Waited Barcenas

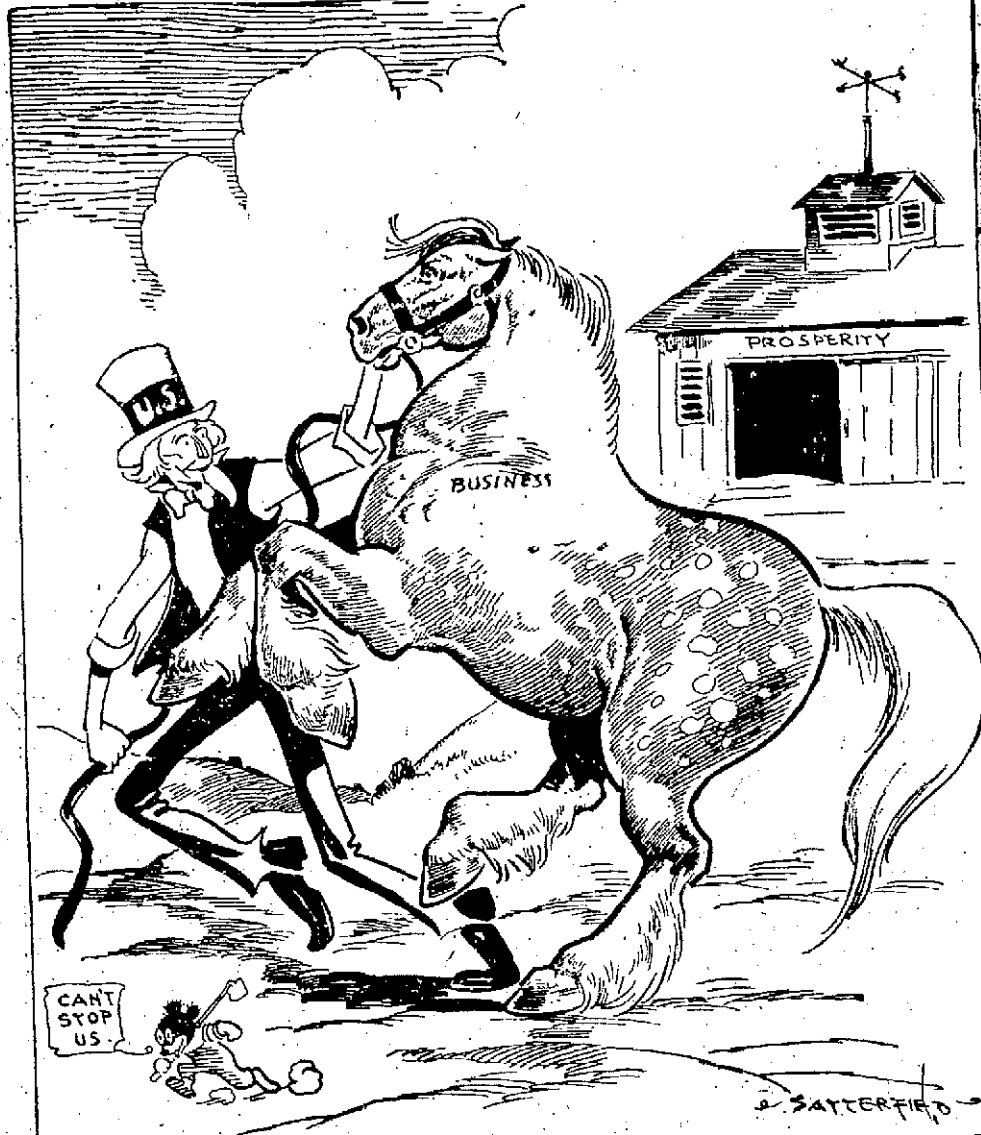

As proof of Guajardo's sincerity Zapata demanded the head of Victoriano Barcenas, now with Gonzalez against the Surianos.

Gonzalez studied the situation. Barcenas could not be slain except to put an end to Zapata's blood-thirsty career. The general dictated a second letter which Guajardo sent to Zapata. He said he planned to wait until April 6 when fresh ammunition and the army payroll would arrive. Then he would revolt. If he killed Barcenas, he said, it would preclude the very coup which would again make Zapata a formidable power.

In the meantime Gonzalez ordered Barcenas and his men to a distant part of the state so Guajardo would be able to furnish a good excuse to Zapata for not killing the surrendered Barcenas.

Then came a letter from Zapata. Money and ammunition could wait. He wanted the head of Barcenas. It looked as if the plot to get Zapata would fail because Barcenas could not be wantonly murdered after being promised protection. In a last effort to appease Zapata, a

Among these were Cleopatra, a baby elephant, a bighorn rhinoceros, saddle-back tapers, a black chimpanzee of the Congo region, civet cats, gnus, black leopards and a great herd of elands. Civil cats have never before been exhibited either in England or America. According to animal experts, they are the most beautiful creature that lives, not excepting the more gorgeous of the bird kingdom. As menagerie curiosities they are worth their weight in gold.

REPUBLICANS NOW IN SWAY IN SENATE AFTER STORMY SCENES

Sen. Walsh Has Attained Popularity in Washington—No Individual Appeals for Soldiers Return Will Be Considered Says Pershing

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31.—Massachusetts has been much in evidence during the opening week of the 66th congress. Senator Lodge in leader of the senate, Congressman Gillett speaker of the house and every man on the delegation, whether republican or democrat, has been splendidly recognized by committee appointments. New England will play a leading part in the national legislation of the coming year and he a strong factor in framing the policy of the new congress.

When congress changed from democratic to republican control, there was a hum of excitement on the floor of both senate and house. Intimations which often amounted to threats, were freely exchanged by rival factions of both parties. But they soon simmered down and now a policy of party harmony seems to have been adopted by both. There may be a fly in the ointment as big as a humble bee, but it is carefully hidden from view. Team work is the one thing that will hold majority success and is the only thing which will give the minority a strong pull in keeping undesirable legislation from their point of view, down to a minimum. So the main fight is now most likely to be between a republican congress and a democratic president. The outgoing leaders were game and have stepped down from chairmanships and speaker and floor leader with good grace. But they have not buried their enemy hatchets, so far as attacking republican policies, and already there have been several lively skirmishes led by former Floor Leader Kitchen. Champ Clark has thus far remained a smiling onlooker, but when the opportunity comes, he will take the reins in his own hand. He is simply waiting for something worth while to turn up. Then he'll roll up his sleeves and plunge in.

Daylight Saving Bill

It seems probable that the daylight saving bill will be repealed. The petitions are coming in every day from the farming districts of the far west showing that the bill is doing them a great hardship. There is an example as stated by Kansas farmers. They employ not less than 600,000 to harvest the crops. These men insist on working the regular winter hours, and quit when the end of a union day comes, according to standard time. The early morning hour is useless to the farmer, so they state. The dew is so heavy on the grain that it cannot be harvested and that extra morning hour is lost to them, although they are paying the men for it. That means, so they say, that 600,000 hours a day are lost to Kansas farmers alone by the daylight saving bill. And other great agricultural states are making the

CHURCH BENEFIT

A delightful entertainment and whist was held at the A.C.F. hall in Carmine street, South Lowell, Thursday evening, the affair being conducted for the benefit of St. Marie's church. The attendance was large and all present spent a very enjoyable evening. There were also musical selections by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morin, Catherine Lafrance and Yvonne Sauvageau. The latter part of the evening was taken up with whist and at the close of the game the players were rewarded with suitable prizes. The entertainment program was under the direction of Mrs. Albert Morin, Jr.

Looking back over the old Sun to Memorial day 25 years ago, I find that the editor who always showed a deep reverence for the men of the Grand Army must have had an unusual inspiration when he wrote the subjoined beautiful editorial on the "Day of the Dead."
